SECTION II
FACULTY STATUTES

Part 1  Definitions

3.1.1 The general forum for the expression of faculty views at St. John Fisher College is the Faculty Assembly and this body shall have primary responsibility for the formation of educational policies of the College. The Assembly ensures open discussion of academic and professional matters by the faculty. It may initiate consideration of particular academic and contractual issues by voting to place such issues on the agenda of the Faculty Council or one of the Faculty Committees, or individuals may introduce proposals under “old or new business.”

3.1.2 The Faculty Council shall be the executive body of the faculty of St. John Fisher College. It shall act in its name and on its behalf. Faculty Council, along with the various Faculty Committees, shall have primary responsibility for the drafting of educational policies forwarded to the Faculty Assembly for consideration. Faculty Council shall report all actions taken since the previous Faculty Assembly meeting. Faculty Council, Faculty Committees, or individual Faculty members may bring proposals to the Faculty Assembly in the form of motions. The Assembly may reject, modify, or refer back to its source any motion presented to it. All such motions except for proposals to establish new programs, departments, or schools, must be approved by the Assembly before they are forwarded to the President.

All proposals to establish new programs, departments, or schools must be submitted as motions to the Faculty Assembly before they are forwarded to the President. The President’s prerogatives regarding motions approved by the Assembly are defined in Section 3.2.7. If a motion to establish a new program, department, or school is disapproved by the Faculty Assembly, the President may refer it back to the Assembly for further consideration. A motion disapproved by the Faculty Assembly may be presented to the Board of Trustees only after the President has provided detailed, compelling reasons for doing so, in writing, to the Assembly. Faculty Council ensures that established policies are duly implemented.

3.1.3 To facilitate the discussion of academic and professional matters, membership of the Faculty Assembly at St. John Fisher College includes:

   a. Full-time teaching faculty, part-time faculty teaching credit courses who have completed at least six semesters of service at St. John Fisher College in the previous four years, and emeritus faculty, as certified by the Faculty Council and the Provost.

   b. The President, the Provost, School Deans, Associate, and Assistant Deans who concurrently hold faculty appointments, professional librarians and the SGA President (or Vice-President) as voting members of the Faculty Assembly. Voting rights in the Assembly are hereby granted these members of the Faculty Assembly; these rights do not include the right to elect or be elected to Faculty Committees.

   c. Other administrative officers whose expertise is frequently pertinent to the discussions of the Faculty Assembly have Honorary, non-voting membership in the Faculty Assembly: the Registrar, the Director of Higher Education Opportunity Program, the Vice-President for Student Affairs and Diversity Initiatives, the Executive Vice-President for Enrollment, Advancement and Planning, the Director of Institutional Research, and Assistant Deans who hold staff appointments

3.1.4 The right to elect and the right to be elected to Faculty Committees shall belong only to the full-time teaching members except where otherwise stated. Part-time faculty members and faculty members participating in the Bridge-to-Retirement program may not serve on standing committees, except as stated elsewhere (e.g., the Faculty Welfare Committee).
Part 2  The Faculty Assembly

3.2.1  The officers of the Faculty Assembly shall be a chair, a Chair, and a secretary.

3.2.2  a. The President of the College shall be the Honorary Chair of the Faculty Assembly, but the duties and powers of this office shall regularly be exercised by the Chair. If the Chair shall be unable or unwilling to assume the Chair, the office shall devolve on the Vice Chair or the Chair of the Faculty Council, respectively.

b. The Chair of the Faculty Assembly shall be elected from the full-time teaching faculty by the Faculty Assembly for a term of two academic years. This election will be held at the annual elections meeting of the Faculty Assembly (see 3.3.12.f) in the second year of the current Chair’s term. The new term shall begin on the next September 1 or at the beginning of the next academic year, whichever comes first. The Chair may be re-elected. A vacancy during the Chair’s term of office shall be filled by an election at the next meeting of the Faculty Assembly, and the Chair so elected shall serve for the remainder of that the original term of office.

3.2.3  The Faculty Assembly shall convene at least twice each semester in two sessions of one or more meetings, the first Session to begin near the opening and the second near the middle of the semester. Standing committees (with the exception of Elections, Grievance, and Strategic Review) and designated ad hoc committees will meet and report to the Assembly at least once each session, and each session will continue in subsequent meetings, normally at two-week intervals, until its business is concluded. A special elections meeting will be held each year between the first and second sessions of the Spring semester (see 3.3A.12.f). The Faculty Council will set the dates for regular sessions and meetings of the Assembly (see 3.3A.3.a).

3.2.4  Delegates

a. Definition

Delegates to the Faculty Assembly shall represent departments, or graduate or undergraduate programs that have at least one full-time faculty member devoted exclusively to them. Final certification of whether a body qualifies for delegate representation shall be made by the Faculty Council.

b. Selection

At the beginning of each academic year the secretary of the Assembly shall compile a roster of departments and graduate or undergraduate programs eligible for delegate representation that will be used for determining quorums for that year’s meetings of the Assembly. Each eligible body will select one primary delegate and one alternate delegate and provide their names to the secretary of the Faculty Assembly. Each delegate or alternate can represent only one department or undergraduate or graduate program.

c. Duties

1. The Faculty Assembly delegates are to attend all Faculty Assembly meetings (whose schedule will be published at the beginning of each semester). Delegates who cannot attend a given meeting will inform their alternates, who should attend in their stead.

2. At the meetings, delegates (or alternates) should sign in with the Faculty Secretary, so that a count of delegates present can be easily taken. Since the delegates (or alternates) have agreed to serve in this capacity, their attendance will be part of the Assembly record.
3.2.5 The Secretary

   a. The secretary shall be nominated from the faculty and elected by the faculty at the last faculty meeting of the year and shall serve for the next academic year. The secretary may be re-elected.

   b. The secretary shall circulate the agenda as specified in 3.2.6a, shall be responsible for recording the minutes of each meeting of the Faculty Assembly, and shall distribute the minutes no later than one month following each meeting.

3.2.6 Meetings of the Faculty Assembly shall follow Roberts Rules of Order as they have been qualified by the faculty for the conduct of its business. The following procedural motions have been adopted:

   a. The agenda for the meeting of the Faculty Assembly shall be drawn up in the following way: The secretary shall collect from the President of the College, the Chair of the Faculty Council and from all standing committees, all items needing faculty consideration and approval. In addition, any member of the Faculty Assembly may request in writing to have items placed on the agenda under New Business. The President of the Student Government Association may submit to the Chair of the Faculty Council a written list of items pertinent to the student body, for consideration by the Faculty Assembly.

   The Chair of the Faculty Assembly shall draft the agenda. At least 7 days before each regularly scheduled meeting, the Chair of each Assembly committee shall submit in writing a report of committee activities, with all motions and supporting documents to be brought before the Assembly. At least 3 days before the meeting, the Secretary will distribute the agenda, with these reports, motions, and supporting documents, to all Assembly members.

   In case an agenda is not published for any given meeting, the agenda shall be considered as follows:

       Minutes
       Approval of Agenda
       Correspondence and Announcements
       Report from the Faculty Council
       Reports from Standing Committees
       Reports from Ad Hoc Committees
       Old Business
       New Business

   b. That the Faculty Assembly, after the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, make as its fixed second item of regular business the formal adoption of the agenda of the day.

   c. Notice of proposals on educational policy shall be circulated to the faculty at least three days prior to the scheduled meeting of the Faculty Assembly at which they are to be considered. The requirement of earlier notice may be waived by a simple majority of the full-time faculty (as defined in 3.1.3a), or by a simple majority of the delegates in circumstances where a quorum was reached through delegate representation.

   d. Determination of the quorum.

       A quorum can be achieved in either of two ways:

       1. The quorum of the Faculty Assembly shall be equal to a simple majority of the total number of full-time teaching faculty minus the number of those individuals who are on sabbatical or medical or unpaid leaves of absence formally granted by the College. Though not counted in determining the quorum number, individuals on sabbatical or other leaves of absence are entitled to attend and participate fully in Faculty Assembly meetings.

2. In the absence of a traditional quorum, the presence of two-thirds of the departmental and program delegates (as defined in 3.2.4) shall constitute a quorum. In this case, all members in attendance retain their full privileges to speak and vote.

e. The Faculty Assembly is a continuing body throughout the academic year, that is, from September 1 to August 31 of the following year.

f. Eligible faculty members whose job responsibilities are such that they are required to be off campus during the time of the Faculty Assembly meeting may participate in Faculty Assembly remotely and are considered present if they do so. Ten days before the first Faculty Assembly meeting of the semester, the Deans and the Provost shall present a list of faculty eligible for this accommodation to the Secretary of the Faculty Assembly, who will work with OIT and the chair of the Elections Committee to ensure participation by whatever technology is deemed most efficient. The Secretary of the Faculty Assembly will announce the list to Faculty Assembly for a point of information. All efforts will be made to offer the technology in a timely manner.

3.2.7 Decisions of the Faculty Assembly shall be embodied in the form of resolutions.

a. It shall be the responsibility of the officer of the Assembly presiding when the resolution was passed, in cooperation with the secretary, to be sure that copies of the resolution are transmitted to the President of the College and to the appropriate Vice President or other administrative officer(s) most concerned with the subject.

b. The President of the College, acting for himself/herself or for the appropriate administrative officer, may refer back to the Assembly for further discussion any resolution passed by the Assembly. This referral must contain a specific list of reasons for this action. The referral back to the Assembly must occur as soon as possible and no later than the beginning of the next regularly scheduled meeting of the Assembly.

c. If the Assembly passes this resolution again, in the same or amended form, the President shall present the resolution to the Board of Trustees of the College, with his/her own recommendations, at the next regularly scheduled meeting of the Board.

d. A resolution of the Faculty Assembly shall become the policy of the College if, following the placement of the resolution with the Board of Trustees, no action is taken by the Board at its next regular meeting. The Board of Trustees may take action on the resolution in whole or in part: to approve, to disapprove, giving a statement of its reason(s) thereof, or to postpone decision, but not longer than the following regular meeting of the Board. The Board may also allow the policy of the resolution, in whole or in part, to become effective by declining to act.

3.2.8 Whenever the College Statutes require that an action be taken by a certain date, and appropriate action is not taken as recommended in the Statutes, the Faculty Council should be informed. If no action is taken within a two-week period, the proper notice should be given to the appropriate bodies.
Part 3A Committees of the Faculty

3.3A.1 Faculty Committees are standing or ad hoc. Their members may be elected (as specified in Section 3.1.4) or appointed in accordance with the Statutes. Ad hoc committees, whether elected or appointed by the faculty, may draw their membership from within or outside the faculty.

The Faculty Council shall set, as early as practicable, the dates for regular meetings of the Faculty Assembly. The Faculty Council or the President of the College may convene additional meetings of the faculty whenever the need shall arise. The faculty may request that the Faculty Council convene an Assembly meeting by submitting a written petition signed by at least one-fourth of the full-time faculty. Upon receipt of this petition, the Chair of the Council, acting for the Council, shall convene a meeting of the Assembly.

Meetings of the Faculty Council shall be open to all members of the faculty of the College, except for those meetings which the Council shall judge by a two-thirds majority vote of its members to involve matters too personal or too private to be openly considered. Except for the closed meetings as defined in the preceding sentence, members of the Faculty Assembly shall be furnished with the notice of the date, time and place of each meeting of the Faculty Council together with an agenda for that meeting. Such material shall be placed in the mailbox of each member of the Faculty Assembly at least three days before each regular meeting of the Faculty Council. The two last sentences shall not apply to special meetings called to consider emergency situations arising from emergency conditions. Persons other than the faculty may attend the meetings of the Faculty Council with prior notice given to the Chair, and with the consent of the Council's members.

These nominations shall include the names of the nominator and the seconder, the signature of the nominee (to indicate acceptance of the nomination), and the name of the committee for which he or she is nominated.

e. By the end of the seventh class day following distribution of the elections master list, the Elections Committee shall provide the faculty with a list of the nominees to each committee and the date of the elections meeting.

f. The annual elections meeting for committees of the Faculty Assembly shall take place after the first session of the Faculty Assembly for the Spring semester is completed and before the second session commences. Further nominations shall be accepted at this meeting, but faculty members are urged to make their nominations in writing so that the voters will have several days to consider the candidates.

g. Whenever a vacancy develops on an elected standing committee after the regular elections meeting in the Fall semester, the Elections Committee shall conduct a special election, either by mail ballot or at a meeting of the Faculty Assembly, whichever will more expeditiously fill the vacancy. d. Without folding the ballot, each voter shall place it face down in the ballot box which will be passed among the voters.

e. Ballots which contain a number not corresponding to that of one of the nominees, or which contains too many votes (numbers), or which contains duplicate votes (numbers), shall be automatically disqualified.

f. The ballots shall be counted and the names of those elected to each committee shall be announced immediately after each election. Nominees who receive the most votes shall be deemed to be elected to a given committee according to the number of positions to be filled, except as noted below in Section g. While the ballots are being counted, oral nominations for the next committee election shall be allowed.

g. To be deemed elected each nominee must receive at least 30% of the ballots cast.

h. The number of elections for any given committee shall equal the number of positions to be filled. There shall be a separate election for each position.

3.3A.14 General Regulations Affecting Elected Standing Committees:

a. No faculty member may serve as chair of more than one elected standing committee.

b. No faculty member may serve on more than two standing committees.

c. Except where specifically stated otherwise, elections to the standing committees are to be held annually after the first session of the Faculty Assembly for the Spring semester is completed and before the second session commences. The terms of service for all committee members (except Grievance), elected in the Spring begin on 9/1. All terms are for a number of full years, including summers; terms which begin on 9/1 would not expire until the end of August of the final year of the term. All committees will hold an organizational meeting of new and continuing members before the end of the Spring semester to elect a chair. All continuing members of the committee and all members whose terms of service begin on 9/1 are entitled to vote for the committee chair for the upcoming year.

d. A quorum of each committee shall be a majority of the voting members.

e. Vacancies: In case of an elected member’s death, resignation, sick leave, or removal, an election to fill the vacancy shall be conducted by the Elections Committee, such election to take place as soon as possible after the vacancy occurs, either by mail ballot or at the next meeting of the Faculty Assembly, whichever is the more expeditious procedure. The person elected to fill the vacancy shall serve only for the remainder of the un-expired term. A faculty member on sabbatical leave or on leave of absence from the College for more than one semester is considered ipso facto to have resigned his or her membership on elected standing committees. In the event of any temporary vacancy of one semester or less due to sabbatical or other leave of absence, a member is permitted to retain his/her committee seat(s); if a member chooses to temporarily vacate his/her seat(s), Faculty Assembly will elect a replacement.

f. Recall: An elected member may be recalled by means of a petition signed by one-third of the members of the full-time teaching faculty and a three-fifths majority vote of the full-time teaching faculty taken by secret ballot.

g. Elected members may be re-elected when their term expires. Co-opted members may stand for election.

h. Faculty members may attend meetings of any elected standing committee by the invitation of, or with the consent of, the committee. The Chair shall act as a spokesperson for the committee.

i. In order to expedite the business of the Faculty Assembly the committees are required to circulate to the faculty a report of the motions they intend to present at the next meeting. Whenever possible such reports should be distributed one week before the Faculty Assembly meets.

j. No student may serve on more than one elected standing committee at one time.
3.3A.15 Method of Amending the Statutes

a. Amendments to the Statutes may be introduced by any full-time member of the faculty or by any committee of the faculty at any meeting of the Faculty Assembly. Such amendments must be submitted in written form.

b. Amendments are introduced by committees of the faculty at the time the committee gives its report.

c. Amendments are introduced by individual faculty members under "New Business." Committees are free to introduce amendments at this time if they so desire.

d. All motions to amend the Statutes shall be placed on the Assembly’s agenda for the next meeting under “Old Business” where they may then be debated and acted upon. To be approved, such motions need a simple majority of voting Assembly members present. (Voting rights in the Assembly are defined in sections 3.1.3.a and 3.1.3.b).

e. To be debated or acted upon at the same meeting of the Assembly in which it is introduced, a motion to amend the Statutes would require the approval of a simple majority of all voting Assembly members in the College (including both those present and non-present). (Voting rights in the Assembly are defined in sections 3.1.3.a and 3.1.3.b).

The Committee shall review the annual recruiting and retention targets and the current fund budget supporting recruiting and retention activities and make recommendations to the Board. The Committee will receive reports on market research and competitor analysis.
Part 4  Departments

3.4.1  Each department shall be responsible for the development of policy concerning its own educational affairs, and shall have the fullest measure of autonomy consistent with the Faculty Statutes and the educational mission of the School and the College.

3.4.2  Departmental authority shall extend to, but not be limited to, the content and frequency of course offerings, major and minor requirements, prerequisites, hiring and leadership recommendations, and other matters which may affect the level and quality of instruction. A department’s decisions affecting its educational policies and practices may be guided or constrained by those of the School in which it resides. While School governance and administrative structures may vary, each will include mechanisms to ensure individual departments have a voice in determining the School’s educational policies and practices.

3.4.3  Each department shall be responsible for transmitting its recommendations to the School Dean. The Dean will review recommendations, respond to the department, and if applicable, forward the recommendations to the appropriate committee(s) of the School.

3.4.4  At least twice per session of the Faculty Assembly, the department will hold a meeting of all full-time faculty members of the department and those staff and part-time faculty members with voting rights, excluding emeritus faculty (see 3.1.3.a). Only tenured faculty vote in tenure and promotion decisions (see 3.10.5).

3.4.5  Notice of each meeting must be given at least one week in advance and the minutes of each meeting will be distributed to departmental members by the Chair or designee. A copy of the minutes will be forwarded to the School Dean and then forwarded to the Provost by the Dean.
Part 5 Teaching Faculty, Department Chairs, School Deans

5.A Teaching Faculty

3.5.A.1 Full-time faculty members are expected to attend governance meetings, including: (1) Faculty Assembly, (2) departmental meetings as scheduled by the Chair, (3) school meetings as scheduled by the Dean, (4) meetings of those committees on which they hold membership.

3.5.A.2 Participation by full-time faculty in the Commencement ceremony is required unless excused by the Provost or the President. Participation in social, cultural, and educational College functions, including Faculty Development Day, is expected.

3.5.A.3 At the beginning of each term faculty members will inform students about course requirements including but not limited to: learning objectives, grading policies, due dates for all assignments, required texts, faculty contact information and office hours, College policy on students with disabilities, College policy on academic honesty, and other pertinent details. Faculty will retain records and student materials submitted as summative assessments for one year in order that students be able to retrieve their work and to understand the basis for their grades. They will make student work and analysis of student learning available to the department and the School, consistent with the assessment plans and practices of each.

3.5.A.4 Faculty members are expected to make themselves available to students seeking advice and help. The chair will assign advisees to faculty members. Each faculty member must post a schedule of office hours on their office. Faculty members are expected to be present during the posted hours. Although the College does not require that each member of the faculty be present on campus for a fixed number of hours each day, it should be understood that all faculty members should be reasonably available to students.

3.5.A.5 When it is necessary for a faculty member to be absent from class, he/she will inform the department chair.

3.5.A.6 Faculty members are expected to engage in service to the College. Service includes serving on committees of academic departments, schools, and the College, both elected and ad hoc. This work is part of one’s professional responsibility.

3.5.A.7 Reasonable attempts will be made to distribute the faculty members’ loads equitably over the academic week. Requests for special hours may be made through the Department Chair, to the School Dean and to the Provost. Reasonable attempts will be made to honor requests for special consideration in scheduling classes.

5.B Department Chairs

3.5.B.1 Department Chair is the executive officer of his or her instructional department, is responsible for carrying out general supervision and policies of the department, and will report to the School Dean. The Department Chair is responsible for overseeing or delegating the following:

a. the administrative work of the department including: correspondences and records, submitting capital requests, submitting new program or programmatic changes, approving independent studies, approving requirements or waivers within the major, etc.;

b. the proposed academic schedule of classes under the supervision of the Provost in consultation with the School Dean;
c. the assignment of courses to members of the department;
d. the academic advisement of students in the major;
e. the hiring of adjunct faculty and departmental staff, when necessary;
f. the oversight of searches for candidates for full-time faculty positions [See section 3.7];
g. the evaluation of full-time and part-time faculty, and other department staff who report to the chair;
h. facilitating departmental mentorship for junior faculty;
i. the oversight and assessment of the curriculum;
j. initiating policies and actions concerning departmental affairs, subject to the conditions imposed by 3.4.4 and the Faculty Statutes
k. presiding at departmental meetings;
l. ensuring that the department is represented whenever such representation is required;
m. communicating departmental issues and initiatives, concerns, and personnel issues to the Dean; and
n. when applicable, preparing and managing the tentative budget for the department and submitting it to the School Dean.

3.5.B.2 The Chair of the department in which the faculty member holds the majority of his/her appointment is responsible for conducting a careful yearly evaluation of each faculty member of the department. When a faculty member serves more than one department or program, the School Dean, in consultation with the appropriate Chair(s) and the Program Director(s), will determine who is involved in the yearly evaluation of the faculty member. This determination should occur at the start of each academic year. The evaluation process should serve two primary purposes: to provide the Chair with necessary information on the performance of the non-tenured faculty members in the department, and for both tenured and non-tenured faculty members, to provide information indispensable to a faculty member’s professional development. Chairs’ evaluations should be consistent with Section 3.9.6 of the Faculty Statutes.

3.5.B.3 When recommending for or against reappointment of faculty in temporary lines or in the probationary period, promotion or tenured appointment, the Chair will submit a full report based on a careful evaluation, together with his/her recommendations, to the Committee on Rank and Tenure (where applicable) and with copies to the School Dean, the Provost and the President of the College (see 3.10.5).

3.5.B.4 The Chair of the department will ordinarily be a tenured member of the faculty, appointed for a term of three years by the Board of Trustees upon recommendation of the faculty members of the department, the School Dean the Provost, and the President. A Chair may be reappointed.

Selection of the Chair of the department will ordinarily follow the majority preference of department members; however, the department’s preference is a recommendation, while the appointment remains the responsibility of the President and the Board of Trustees. When a vacancy occurs or when a Chair’s term of office is scheduled to expire, a departmental meeting or meetings will be held under the supervision of the outgoing Chair, or if the Chair is not available, of the senior member of the department in years of service at St. John Fisher College. At the start of each academic year each appropriate department chair and/or program director will determine the voting privileges for full time faculty members who serve more than one department or program. Any disputed assignment of voting privileges will be resolved by vote of Faculty Council. There is no prohibition on a faculty member having voting privileges in more than one department or program. Full-time faculty members of the department, other faculty members determined to have voting privileges, and the part-time faculty members of the department with voting rights (see 3.1.3.a) who teach on a St. John Fisher College campus may participate in such meeting(s). The chair of the meeting may invite any other person(s), whose insight would be valuable, to participate in these meetings. A substantive account of such meeting(s) will be sent by the chair of the meeting to the Dean with a copy to the Provost.

Shortly after the meeting(s) described above, the full-time members of the department, other faculty determined to have voting privileges (see preceding paragraph) and the part-time faculty members with voting rights (see 3.1.3.a) who teach on a St. John Fisher College campus will meet and cast secret ballots for the office of Chair. The Chair of the Faculty Council or a designee will tabulate the results and communicate the complete results to the department members, and then transmit the complete results to the Dean with copies to the Provost and the President. If there is no majority candidate, the department may conduct another election or a run-off election. The Chair of the Faculty Council or a designee will then communicate the complete results to the department members and then to the Dean with copies to the Provost and President. A record of the result of the vote will be kept in the file of the Chair of the Faculty Council for a year. The Dean will provide a written recommendation regarding the nominee to the Provost who will forward this information along with his or her recommendation to the President. The President and the Board of Trustees then make the appointment of Chair of the department.

If, after three rounds of voting, no candidate has achieved a majority, the Dean will call a meeting of the full-time members of the department and those part-time faculty members with voting rights (see 3.1.3.a) at which he or she will seek to clarify concerns of the faculty and the needs of the department, and to help the members of the department reach a satisfactory selection.

If the department selects a candidate about whom the Dean or Provost has concerns, the Dean or Provost will call a meeting of the full-time members of the department and those part-time faculty members with voting rights (see 3.1.3.a), at which he or she will clarify his or her reasons for differing from the recommendation of the members of the department. After this meeting, the department may opt to vote an additional time. If there is an impasse between the department and the Dean or Provost over the selection of a Chair, the case will be forwarded to the President.

If the substantive account of the meeting(s) to consider departmental needs, issues and future activities and to identify the characteristics desirable in the next Chair affirms that the majority of the department determines that external candidates should be eligible for consideration as the next Chair, the department may conduct an external search to hire a chair for the department subject to a positive recommendation from the Strategic Review Committee, and approval by the Dean, the Provost, and the President. Internal candidates are eligible for consideration in this search. The search process for an external chair should follow the guidelines outlined in 3.7 for faculty appointments.

In the situation in which an external candidate is selected as Chair, that individual will receive the standard three year appointment as Chair. Prior to the expiration of that term, eligible members of the department will engage in a vote of affirmation, modeled upon the election process for a Chair, to express the department’s stance towards the extension of the current Chair’s term for an additional three years. The Chair, or if the Chair is not available, the senior member of the department in years of service at St. John Fisher College will call a meeting of faculty members with voting privileges in the department to consider departmental needs, issues and future activities and to discuss their perceptions of the current Chair’s capacity to effectively address those matters. A substantive account of such meeting(s) will be sent by the Chair of the meeting to the Dean with a copy to the Provost.

Shortly after the meeting described above, those eligible will engage in a vote indicating that they either affirm or do not affirm that the term of the current Chair should be extended for a three year period. The Chair of the Faculty Council or a designee will tabulate the results and transmit the complete results to the department members, Dean, Provost, and President. The Dean will provide a written recommendation regarding the nominee to the Provost who will forward this information along with his or her recommendation to the President.

As with other voted for Department Chair, the department's preference is a recommendation, while the appointment remains the responsibility of the President and the Board of Trustees. Unlike other votes for Chair, once an external Chair is hired, the assumption is that his or her term will be extended, pending the approval of the President and the Board of Trustees.

5.C School Deans

3.5.C.1 The School Dean is the academic leader and chief administrative officer of the School and reports directly to the Provost for all aspects of the operation of the School, including its conduct and development as an instructional, research, and service unit. In carrying out responsibilities, the School Dean may consult advisory bodies within the School and outside the School, and College. The Dean is the senior administrative representative of the School working with officers of the College and is responsible for communicating information concerning programs and departments between officers of the College and Chairs and Directors within the school.

3.5.C.2 Search Process

When a vacancy occurs, a meeting of School faculty will be held, called by the chair or graduate program director with the most years of service at St. John Fisher College, who will chair all meetings of this group. Full and part-time faculty members are eligible to attend and participate in such meeting(s), to consider School needs, issues and future activities, and to identify the characteristics desirable in the next Dean, in consultation with the Provost, who will attend the meeting(s). At any meeting, the School, through the Chair of the meeting(s), might invite any other persons whose participation would be valuable. A substantive account of such meeting(s) will be sent by the Chair of the meeting to the President with a copy to the Provost.

After the President has given permission for a search for a Dean, the Provost, the department chairs and graduate program directors within the School will create a search committee, approved by the School faculty with voting privileges. This committee will articulate and initiate a search process (consistent with the Statutes) for candidates, who may be internal and external to the College. Once the search committee has completed its process and selected candidates, a School meeting will be held with a quorum required (the quorum is defined as a simple majority of the full-time faculty members in the School). The full-time faculty of the School and those part-time faculty members with voting rights (see 3.1.3.a) will meet and cast individual, secret ballots for the Dean. Full-time faculty may only vote for the Dean of the School that includes the department in which they hold a full-time appointment.

The Chair of the Faculty Council or a designee will tabulate the results and make them the complete results known to the meeting. The Chair of the Faculty Council or a designee will then transmit the complete results to the President with a copy to the Provost. A record of the result of the vote will be kept in the file of the Chair of the Faculty Council for a year.
Upon receipt of the vote, the President will consult with the Provost. Selection of the School Dean will ordinarily follow the majority preference of School members. If the President is inclined to recommend contrary to the vote of the School, the President will meet with the School for further consultation prior to submitting a recommendation for appointment to the Board of Trustees. The School Dean will be appointed by the Board of Trustees upon the recommendation of the President, following the process outlined above. The term of appointment is not limited; the Dean serves at the pleasure of the President.

3.5.C.3 Evaluation

Deans will be evaluated by a process established by the Provost and School department chairs, program directors, and graduate program directors every three years in accordance with the general practice of performance review and collegial feedback. Results of the evaluation will be forwarded to the Provost and President. The evaluation of the Dean by the faculty of the School should be considered as part of the review of Deans by the Provost and President. In addition to the 3-year review of the Deans, the Provost may meet with School faculty in a confidential, end-of-year meeting for the purpose of incorporating faculty input into the Deans' standard annual performance evaluations.

3.5.D.1 Associate/Assistant Dean

The Associate Dean is an academic officer of the School who reports directly to the School Dean. The Associate Dean will be a faculty member. The Associate Dean’s duties and responsibilities can vary by School but will typically involve administrative and governance roles to maintain and advance the instructional, scholarly, and service activities of the School’s faculty, staff, and programs. The Associate Dean will retain rights as such including voting privileges as a member of Faculty Assembly (as defined in 3.1.3.B) and voting privileges in their department so long as they retain teaching responsibilities.

The Assistant Dean is an administrative officer of the School who reports directly to the School Dean. The Assistant Dean who concurrently holds a faculty appointment will retain rights as such including voting privileges as a member of Faculty Assembly (as defined in 3.1.3.B) and voting privileges in their department so long as they retain teaching responsibilities. The staff member will be recognized as an honorary, non-voting member of the Faculty Assembly (as defined in 3.1.3.C). The Assistant Dean’s duties and responsibilities can vary by School but will typically involve an administrative role in the maintenance and advancement of the instructional, scholarly, and service activities of the School’s faculty, staff, and programs. The position does not have a governance role in instructional and educational policy although the Assistant Dean can facilitate processes associated with these matters acting as an agent of the School Dean.

The position description for each Assistant and Associate Dean, including all duties, responsibilities, and the designation of the position as staff or academic, will remain on file in the respective School Dean’s office. The position description will be reviewed and updated annually in a process that includes the Dean, the Associate Dean, the Assistant Dean, and the school faculty or representatives thereof. When amended, the School Dean will circulate the updated position description to the faculty of the school. The position description will remain on file and will be available, upon request, to all faculty.

Selection Process

When an opening occurs for the position of Associate or Assistant Dean, a meeting of School faculty will be held, called by the School Dean, or if the Dean is not available, by the chair or graduate program director with the most years of service at St. John Fisher College, who will chair all meetings of this group. Full and part-time faculty members of the school are eligible to attend and participate in such meeting(s), to consider School needs, issues and future activities, and to identify the characteristics desirable in the next Associate or Assistant Dean, in consultation with the Dean. If the substantive account of the meeting(s) to consider the School’s needs, issues, and future activities and to identify the characteristics desirable in the next Associate or Assistant Dean affirms that the majority of the school determines that external candidates should be eligible for consideration as the next Associate or Assistant Dean, the School may conduct an external search to hire an Associate or Assistant Dean for the School subject to a positive recommendation from the Strategic Review Committee, and approval by the Dean, the Provost, and the President. Internal candidates are eligible for consideration in this search. The search process for an external Associate or Assistant Dean should follow the guidelines outlined in 3.7 for faculty appointments. At any meeting, the School, through the Chair of the meeting(s), might invite any other persons whose participation would be valuable. A substantive account of such meeting(s) will be sent by the Chair of the meeting to the President with a copy to the Provost.

After the President has given permission for a search, the Dean, the department chairs and graduate program directors within the School will create a search committee, approved by the School faculty with voting privileges. This committee will articulate and initiate a search process (consistent with the Statutes) for candidates, who may be internal and external to the College. Once the search committee has completed its process, consulted affected departments, and selected candidate(s), a School meeting will be held with a quorum required (the quorum is defined as a simple majority of the full-time faculty members in the School). The full-time faculty of the School and those part-time faculty members with voting rights (see 3.1.3.a) will meet and cast individual, secret ballots for the Associate or Assistant Dean. Full-time faculty may only vote for the Associate or Assistant Dean of the School that includes the department in which they hold a full-time appointment.

The Chair of the Faculty Council or a designee will tabulate the results and make the complete results known to the meeting. The Chair of the Faculty Council or a designee will then transmit the complete results to the President with a copy to the School Dean and to the Provost. A record of the result of the vote will be kept in the file of the Chair of the Faculty Council for a year.

The Dean will provide a written recommendation regarding the nominee to the Provost who will forward this information along with his or her recommendation to the President. The President and the Board of Trustees then make the appointment of Associate or Assistant Dean.

If the School selects a candidate about whom the Dean or Provost has concerns, the Dean or Provost will call a meeting of the full-time members of the School and those part-time faculty members with voting rights, at which he or she will clarify his or her reasons for differing from the recommendation of the members of the School. After this meeting, the School faculty may opt to vote an additional time. If there is an impasse between the School and the Dean or Provost over the selection of an Associate or Assistant Dean, the case will be forwarded to the President.

Upon receipt of the School Dean’s recommendation, the President will consult with the Provost. Selection of an Associate or Assistant Dean will ordinarily follow the recommendation of the Dean. If the President is inclined to recommend contrary to the recommendation of the Dean, the President will meet with the School for further consultation prior to submitting a recommendation for appointment to the Board of Trustees. Associate and Assistant Deans will be appointed by the Board of Trustees upon the recommendation of the President, following the process outlined above.

The term of appointment is typically three years but Associate and Assistant Deans serve at the pleasure of the School Dean. Unless the School Dean notifies the Provost and President of his or her intent to not renew the appointment and to initiate the selection of a new Associate or Assistant Dean, appointments of Associate and Assistant Deans will automatically renew for three years upon the recommendation of the President and reappointment by the Board of Trustees.
Evaluation

Associate Deans will be evaluated by the Dean according to the faculty evaluation timeline. Assistant Deans will be evaluated annually by the Dean under the annual staff performance evaluation process. The Dean may meet with School faculty in a confidential, end-of-year meeting for the purpose of incorporating faculty input into the Associate and Assistant Deans' annual performance evaluations.

In addition, Associate and Assistant Deans will be evaluated by a process established by the School Dean and School department chairs, program directors, and graduate program directors every three years in accordance with the general practice of performance review and collegial feedback. Results of the evaluation will be forwarded to the Provost and President. This evaluation of Associate and Assistant Deans by the faculty of the School should be considered as part of the review of Deans by the Provost and President.
Part 6      Academic Freedom and Tenure

Institutions of higher education are conducted for the common good and not to further the interest of either the individual teacher or the institution as a whole. The common good depends upon the free search for truth and its free exposition.

Academic freedom is essential to these purposes and applies to both teaching and research. Freedom in research is fundamental to the advancement of truth. Academic freedom in its teaching aspect is fundamental for the protection of the rights of the teacher in teaching and of the student to freedom in learning. It carries with it duties correlative with rights.

3.6.1 Teachers are entitled to full freedom in research and in the publication of the results, subject to the adequate performance of their other academic duties; but research for pecuniary return should be based upon an understanding with the authorities of the institution.

3.6.2 Teachers are entitled to freedom in the classroom in discussing their subject, but they should be careful not to introduce into their teaching controversial matter which has no relation to their subject. Limitations of academic freedom because of religious or other aims of the institution should be clearly stated in writing at the time of appointment.

3.6.3 College or university teachers are citizens, members of a learned profession, and officers of an educational institution. When they speak or write as citizens, they should be free from institutional censorship or discipline, but their special position in the community imposes special obligations. As individuals of learning and educational officers, they should remember that the public may judge their profession and their institution by their utterances. Hence, they should at all times be accurate, should exercise appropriate restraint, should show respect for the opinions of others, and should make every effort to indicate that they are not speaking for the institution.

3.6.4 Academic tenure is a means to certain ends, specifically:
   a. Freedom of teaching and research and of extra-mural activities, and
   b. a sufficient degree of economic security to make the profession attractive to men and women of ability. Freedom and economic security, hence, tenure, are indispensable to the success of an institution in fulfilling its obligations to its students and to society.

3.6.5 Upon successful completion of a probationary period, teachers shall have tenure, and their service shall be terminated before retirement only for adequate cause. Exceptions to this rule may only be made as follows:
   1. a tenured position is not currently available to an individual faculty member (see also section 3.8.1, second paragraph including items 1-6);
   2. upon recommendation of the department chair and the School Dean, where applicable, and with the approval of the Committee on Rank and Tenure, the Provost, and the President, a multi-year contract which does not imply tenure extending beyond the end of the probationary period may be offered to the faculty member;
   3. all reasons and conditions of any such contract must be indicated and agreed to in writing by the individual and the School Dean, where applicable, and the Provost with a copy to the Committee on Rank and Tenure;
   4. the total number of these special contracts shall not exceed 20% of the full-time faculty;
   5. the holding of such a multi-year contract does not necessarily assure an individual of first choice for a tenured position, should one become available;

1These new regulations apply only to initial appointments effective July 1, 1973, or later.
6. any faculty member holding such a contract will be considered among the non-tenured faculty.

a. For the purpose of this section, full-time teaching or a full-time teaching appointment shall ordinarily include a minimum of nine hours per week in which students are taught as a group in a formal setting as in lectures or seminars.\(^2\) Unless the faculty member shall obtain written approval of the Provost in consultation with the School Dean, where applicable, and if not, the department chair, the faculty member teaching fewer than nine hours shall not be deemed to hold a full-time teaching appointment. Should a question arise regarding the full-time status of any particular teaching assignment, a ruling shall be made before the completion of the semester by the Provost. The ruling shall be made after consultation with the individual concerned and the department chair, and after consideration of the provisions of the faculty member's contract.

b. The "probationary period" means that period of full-time teaching prior to the acquisition of tenure. In order to enter upon this probationary period, the faculty member shall hold the required academic qualifications, i.e., the Ph.D. degree or its professional equivalent. Exceptions shall be made only by a written agreement of the chair of the department involved, the School Dean, where applicable, the Provost, and the President of the College.

c. The terms and conditions of every appointment to the faculty shall be stated or confirmed in writing and signed by both parties, and a copy of the document shall be supplied to the faculty member. In order to be valid, any subsequent extensions or modifications of an appointment, and any special understandings, or any notices incumbent upon either party to provide, shall be stated or confirmed in writing and signed by both parties. Each party shall receive a copy of the agreement and any modifications.

d. With the exception of special appointments clearly limited to a brief association with this College, and reappointments of retired faculty members on special conditions, all full-time teaching appointments to the rank of instructor or higher are of three kinds: (1) probationary appointments which may be for one year, or for other stated periods, subject to renewal; (2) appointments with continuous tenure; and (3) special multi-year appointments not implying tenure extending beyond the end of the probationary period as outlined in the opening paragraph of this section 3.6.5. Except for faculty members who have tenure, individuals with a full-time teaching appointment of any kind shall be informed each year in writing of their appointment and of matters relative to their eligibility for the acquisition of tenure.

e. The probationary period shall not exceed seven years of full-time teaching at this College. Those faculty members with previous full-time teaching experience performed after the receipt of the Ph.D. or its professional equivalent and at the rank of instructor or higher in other accredited institutions of higher education may receive credit for up to three years of experience against the probationary period of this College. When a question arises as to the equivalency of teaching experience at other accredited institutions of higher education, such questions shall be decided by the President after consultation with the individual concerned, the department chair, and the School Dean, where applicable, and the Provost. If a shorter probationary period is agreed to at the time of appointment of a faculty member, to be valid the conditions of such agreement shall be stated in writing and a copy placed in the candidate's professional file. These conditions shall be communicated to the Committee on Rank and Tenure.

\(^2\)In those academic fields using laboratories, a minimum of a twelve-hour combination of laboratories and lectures ordinarily constitutes a full load. If directed independent study is to be calculated as constituting part of the minimum teaching load, this must be agreed to in writing by the Chair of the department, the School Dean, where applicable, and the Provost.
Previous service at the College of those faculty members who return to the College after a permanent separation shall be treated as full-time service at another institution of higher education. Time spent on sabbatical leave is counted toward the probationary period, unless the faculty member and the College agree in writing to waive this provision at the time the sabbatical is granted. A leave of absence with pay for less than an academic year will count toward the probationary period. A leave of absence without pay for one academic year or more will not count toward the probationary period unless the faculty member and the College agree in writing to the contrary at the time the leave is granted.

f. Regardless of the stated term or other provisions of any appointments, written notice that a probationary appointment or a post-probationary non-tenured appointment is not to be renewed shall be given to faculty members in advance of the expiration of their appointment, as follows: (1) not later than February 1 of the first academic year of service within the probationary period, if the appointment expires at the end of that academic year or, if a one-year appointment terminates during an academic year, at least three months in advance of its termination; (2) not later than December 15 of the second academic year of service within the probationary period if the appointment expires at the end of the academic year or, if the appointment terminates during an academic year, at least six months in advance of its termination; (3) at least two semesters before the expiration of the third year of service within the probationary period; (4) at least twelve months before expiration of an appointment after two full calendar years or more of service within the probationary period and/or after it in case of special, non-tenured post-probationary appointments.

g. By April 15 of each year, the College shall notify faculty members of the salary to be attached to their appointment for the forthcoming academic year.

h. Dismissal for cause may occur and will terminate the continuous appointment of a tenured faculty member in one or more of the following instances:

i. financial exigency of the College which shall be demonstrably bona fide;

ii. when a specific program area or department is closed by the College, in which case the College will provide at least one year's notice to the faculty member(s) affected and will offer reappointment to those faculty members affected if the program or department is reinstated within two years from the time it is closed;

iii. professional incompetence;

iv. protracted failure to discharge a significant portion of the primary responsibilities of a faculty member, e.g., scholarship and creativity, classroom teaching, research, student advising;

v. moral turpitude.

3The periods of service referred to in this section apply only to service at this College and not to the total number of years of probationary service which may have been credited for prior experience.
Part 7 Faculty Appointments

3.7.1 All members of the faculty receive their appointment to the College and their assignment to academic rank from the President of the College. Department Chairs will make recommendations for appointment to the School Dean and to the President after they have completed the steps outlined in the following sections.

3.7.2 Chair of a department will request approval from the School Dean and the Provost to fill an academic position; it is expected that sufficient data will be presented with a request to justify approval.

3.7.3 Recommending the rank to be offered a new faculty member, the Department Chair must be guided by the norms set forth in the current Faculty Statutes. Ordinarily the Chair will recommend a starting salary and academic rank to the School Dean, who will conduct negotiations with job candidates. If, in rare cases, it is necessary to make any additional arrangements concerning conditions of appointment with an individual faculty member, these must be made in writing by the Provost, and communicated back to the Department Chair. In all instances final approval for financial arrangements must be given by the President.

3.7.4 The Department Chair will request candidates to supply the following information:

a. A completed application form or letter of application, as determined by the department concerned.

b. Transcripts of the applicants' work in the colleges and universities at which they have earned degrees, and/or have worked towards a degree.

c. Letters of recommendation from appropriate sources are required. In all instances a letter of recommendation must be received from the immediate past employer of the candidates. Candidates who have had previous teaching experience must also supply a letter of recommendation from the institution in which they held their last teaching appointment.

d. Candidates who have not had previous teaching experience shall furnish appropriate recommendations from professors who have known them as students and who are competent to judge their fitness for the expected assignment.

3.7.5 Department Chairs will coordinate the application screening and interviewing process of prospective candidates for the vacant position. The Department Chair may delegate responsibilities to a search committee which will include full-time faculty members in that department. The Chair, in consultation with the Dean, may invite faculty members from other departments and/or any other participants (including, but are not limited to: staff members, Associate or Assistant Deans, Deans, etc.) to participate as ex officio, non-voting members of the search committee. If desired by the Department Chair and full-time faculty members of the department, the search committee may also invite those part-time faculty members of the department with voting rights (see 3.1.3.a) to participate on the search committee in the same manner as full-time faculty members of the department. The delegated responsibilities of a search committee may include, but are not limited to, screening applications to determine viable candidates, determining finalists among the viable candidates, conducting phone interviews of finalists, choosing which finalists to invite to campus for an on-campus interview, and meeting with finalists during an on-campus interview.

Department Chairs will submit to the School Dean and to the Provost a copy of the completed application, transcripts and letters of recommendation for each of the proposed faculty members. Chairs will consult with the School Dean, and the Provost to secure his/her opinion concerning the prospective faculty member.

 Either immediately following the interview of the last finalist or a few days thereafter, the full-time faculty members of the department and those part-time faculty members with voting rights, excluding emeritus faculty, (see 3.1.3.a) will meet and cast ballots for their preferred candidate for the vacant position. The Department Chair or a designee should tabulate the results of the nominations, and make them the complete results known to the meeting.

3.7.6. A Department Chair will then submit the complete results of the departmental vote along with his/her written recommendations to the School Dean, and President, along with copies of transcripts and letters of recommendations. The Department Chair will also communicate his/her recommendation to the department. The School Dean and the Provost will likewise submit his/her recommendations directly to the President who will make the final decision. Beginning salary and rank are defined by the President on the advice of the Department Chair, the School Dean and the Provost (see 3.6.5.e, 3.7.2, 3.8.6, 3.11.2, and 3.11.3).
Part 8  Faculty Rank and Privileges

3.8.1 Decisions regarding faculty positions are primarily a faculty responsibility; this area includes appointments, reappointments, decisions not to reappoint, promotions, the granting of tenure, and dismissal. The primary responsibility of the faculty for such matters is based upon the fact that its judgment is central to general educational policy. Furthermore, scholars in a particular field or activity have the chief competence for judging the work of their colleagues; in such competence it is implicit that responsibility exists for both adverse and favorable judgments. Likewise this provision recognizes the more general competence of experienced faculty personnel committees which have a broader charge. Determinations in these matters should first be by faculty action through established procedures, reviewed by the School Dean, where applicable, the Provost and President with the concurrence of the Board. The governing board and president should, on questions of faculty rank and privileges, as in other matters where the faculty have primary responsibility, concur with the faculty judgment except in rare instances and for compelling reasons which should be stated in detail.

While the merits, intellectual contributions and scholarly accomplishments of the individual faculty members are of crucial importance in all matters pertaining to faculty rank and privileges, other factors may also play a role and may induce the principal academic officers and/or the Board of Trustees to differ from faculty recommendations. These other factors include, but are not limited to, the following:

1. the professional make-up and academic balance of the department or division; or School, where applicable.
2. the balance of tenured and non-tenured faculty in both the department or division, or School, where applicable, and the College as a whole;
3. curricular trends in both the department or division, or School, where applicable, and the College as a whole;
4. enrollment trends in the department, division, or School, where applicable, or the College as a whole;
5. the financial status of the College; and
6. contractual understandings and conditions established in writing between the College and the individual.

3.8.2 Faculty rank is extended to full-time and to part-time teaching members of the faculty according to their contracts. Faculty rank may be extended by contract to administrative officers who have qualifications for an academic appointment in an existing department of the College.

3.8.3 Faculty rank is specified by the instructional level of instructor, assistant professor, associate professor, professor, and, upon retirement, emeritus or emerita with any professorial rank (see 3.8.6 and 3.8.8).

Appointees to part-time positions with faculty rank shall be designated as special lecturers or with the prefix "adjunct" used with the specified academic ranks (see 3.8.7).

3.8.4 An administrative appointment is not compatible with full-time teaching. In this provision the departmental chair is not considered an administrative appointment.

3.8.5 Service in an administrative appointment shall not be considered part of the probationary period leading to the acquisition of tenure. The acceptance of an administrative appointment at the College by a non-tenured member interrupts the probationary period unless the contrary is agreed to in writing.
3.8.6 FULL-TIME TEACHING RANKS

a. INSTRUCTOR: Instructors shall ordinarily have an earned doctorate or its professional equivalent. Exceptions shall be made only by a written agreement of the Chair of the department involved, the School Dean, where applicable, the Provost, and the President of the College.

If individuals accepting the appointment come to the College with no full-time college teaching experience, the maximum time they might normally expect to remain in the rank of Instructor is five years. If individuals accepting the appointment come to the College having already completed two or more years of the probationary period toward tenure at another accredited institution, they should not normally expect to hold the rank of Instructor for more than three years.

Notification of renewal or non-renewal of an appointment as Instructor shall be made according to the provisions of Section 3.6.5f.

b. ASSISTANT PROFESSOR: The rank of Assistant Professor will ordinarily be extended to faculty who hold an earned doctorate or its professional equivalent. They may be given a one-year contract upon initial appointment, if they have not had full-time teaching experience in an institution of higher learning. If they have had such full-time teaching experience, they will be given a two or three year contract at the time of appointment.

Upon the recommendation of the Department Chair, the School Dean, where applicable, and the Provost, faculty members may be promoted to the rank of Associate Professor without completing the six years which is ordinarily expected. Promotion in rank does not automatically confer tenure.

Notification of renewal or non-renewal of an appointment as Assistant Professor shall be made according to the provisions of Section 3.6.5f.

c. ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR: For promotion or appointment as Associate Professor candidates must possess the qualifications for an Assistant Professor, and in addition a record of significant achievement in their field or profession as a teacher or as an administrator. Evidence of scholarship, research or creative activity may be manifested through scholarly publications in professionally recognized media as well as through such subsidiary evidence as direction or significant participation in research projects and in the scholarly activities of learned societies. There shall furthermore be evidence that their alertness and intellectual energy are respected in the academic community.

Appointment or promotion to the rank of an Associate Professor does not automatically confer tenure.

Notification of renewal or non-renewal of an appointment as Associate Professor shall be made according to the provisions of Section 3.6.5f.

d. PROFESSOR: For promotion or appointment as Professor the candidate must possess the qualifications of an Associate Professor, and in addition a record of distinguished intellectual, teaching, educational or artistic achievement. There shall be evidence of continued growth and of general recognition among scholars and educators outside the immediate academic community.

Promotion to the rank of Professor will at the same time confer tenure.

Faculty initially appointed to this rank without being granted tenure at the time of their appointment (cf. 3.11.2, 3.11.3) will have their case for tenure reviewed by the Committee on Rank and Tenure within not more than two years.
e. VISITING FACULTY: The prefix "visiting" may be used with any of the regular faculty ranks. A full-time appointment as a visiting faculty member is by its nature temporary, and will normally not extend beyond a maximum of two years. Duration and other conditions of the appointment shall be specified in writing at the time of the initial appointment.

3.8.7 PART-TIME TEACHING FACULTY

a. Part-time teaching faculty members shall hold the ranks indicated in Section 3.8.4b. When they are appointed or reappointed, their ranks shall be arrived at in consultation with the Department Chair (where applicable), the School Dean, where applicable, and the Provost.

b. A part-time teaching faculty member who does not hold the earned doctorate or its professional equivalent shall be designated a special lecturer.

c. In order to hold the rank of adjunct assistant professor, adjunct associate professor, or adjunct professor the part-time teaching faculty member shall hold the earned doctorate degree or its professional equivalent. Exceptions shall be made only by written agreement of the chair of the department involved (where applicable), the School Dean, where applicable, and the Provost.

d. Part-time appointments are temporary in nature for specific periods not to exceed one academic year for each appointment. Part-time faculty members may be reappointed. All terms and conditions shall be specified in writing at the time of the appointment or reappointment. The part-time appointment expires at the end of the specified period, and no notice of non-reappointment is required.

e. Service as a part-time faculty member shall not count as part of the probationary period.

f. Voting rights are limited according to Section 3.1.4.

3.8.8 EMERITUS STATUS

The Committee on Rank and Tenure may designate a faculty member "emeritus" or "emerita" at the last rank held upon retirement from the teaching faculty. The individual shall continue to enjoy such privileges as use of the library, attendance at academic convocations and social events, use of dining facilities, etc.
Part 9  Faculty Evaluation

3.9.1  GENERAL STATEMENT

St. John Fisher College is committed to hiring, retaining, and promoting the best possible faculty. A faculty evaluation process that establishes objective criteria for reappointment demonstrates this commitment. Such an evaluation process assists faculty by providing constructive and balanced information which will promote their professional development. This process is also a means by which individual departments and the College can make evaluative judgments concerning reappointment of non-tenured faculty and promotion in rank and merit increases in salary for tenured as well as non-tenured faculty.

3.9.2  TYPES OF EVALUATION

The annual evaluation outlined below is the basic model for faculty evaluation at the College. When a non-tenured faculty member is required to participate in mid-probationary or tenure review at the departmental level, the annual evaluation is supplemented in the ways outlined in 3.9.4 below, and in Section 3.11. The departmental evaluation for promotion of both tenured and non-tenured faculty is also based on the annual evaluation, but differs from it in the ways indicated in Section 3.10. The annual evaluation and the augmented versions of it which apply to mid-probationary review, tenure review, and review for promotion all take place at the departmental level. Consideration for promotion and/or tenure by the Committee on Rank and Tenure is a separate matter and is discussed in Sections 3.10 and 3.11 of the Faculty Handbook.

3.9.3  ANNUAL EVALUATION

Each full-time faculty member for whom continuing appointment is anticipated undergoes an annual departmental evaluation. This evaluation provides the Chair, the School Dean, where applicable, and the Provost with necessary information on the status of all faculty members, and it supports recommendations for advancement in rank and for merit increases in salary. In addition, the evaluation should help all faculty to fulfill their academic responsibilities by encouraging professional development and by pointing out any deficiencies before they become serious.

The annual evaluation is conducted by the Department Chair in consultation with the individual faculty member and, where appropriate, with other members of the department. Prior to the evaluation, the Chair asks the faculty member to submit an updated curriculum vitae and a self-evaluation. This self evaluation should comment on the faculty member's performance in all the areas listed in Criteria for Evaluation (3.9.6) in which he/she has been active. There is no self-evaluation form; faculty are simply asked to write, commenting in detail on their work for the year in question.

When the Chair has received the faculty member's curriculum vitae and self-evaluation, the evaluation can begin. The faculty member may submit and the Chair may request documentation, in addition to the self-evaluation, of the faculty member's activities in each area to be evaluated. In every case, the faculty member and the Chair will review the results of the student survey form, and the faculty member will provide copies of any published research or creative work. Other methods of demonstrating effectiveness are listed under each of the Criteria for Evaluation in 3.9.6, below.

Having collected and reviewed the appropriate documentation, the Chair meets with the faculty member to discuss his/her case. Any dissatisfaction on the part of the Chair with the faculty member's performance should be voiced in this meeting and the faculty member invited to respond. If the Chair continues to have reservations about the faculty member's performance, these should be reflected in the letter of evaluation the Chair writes to every faculty member after his/her evaluation interview. This letter of evaluation, which is part of every annual review, should summarize the faculty member's accomplishments and make constructive suggestions about any areas of deficiency. The letter should also invite the faculty member to respond to the Chair in writing, if he/she wishes to do so, within two weeks.

The Chair’s letter of evaluation, a summary analysis of student opinion, and any response from the faculty member become part of the individual’s personnel file.

Annual evaluation of the Chair is conducted by the School Dean, where applicable, or if not, by the full-time faculty member in the department with the most seniority at the College, who also writes the required letter of evaluation.

The annual evaluation for every faculty member should be completed no later than March 1, and responses from individual faculty members should be received by the Chair no later than March 15.

3.9.4 MID-PROBATIONARY EVALUATION

In order to initiate the mid-probationary evaluation, the Provost in consultation with the School Dean, where applicable, writes to the Department Chair by September 2, indicating that a thorough evaluation of the faculty member should be undertaken by the department. The purpose of these evaluations is to provide information for faculty to aid them in pursuing their careers in expectation of tenured appointments. The procedure is the same as for the annual evaluation, except that 1) at least two tenured faculty other than the Chair must assist in the evaluation; 2) these additional evaluators are chosen by the Chair, from within the department whenever possible; 3) if the department does not include two tenured members other than the Chair, the Chair asks tenured faculty in another department to assist in the evaluation; 4) each evaluator must observe the faculty member in the classroom at a time or times agreed to by the member and must assess his/her scholarship, research, and/or creative work; and 5) the Chair and all other evaluators must write letters of evaluation to which the faculty member may respond.

The mid-probationary review replaces the annual evaluation for the year in which it takes place, and appropriate documentation of the review is included in the faculty member’s personnel file (3.9.3). This documentation includes, but is not necessarily limited to, letters from the evaluators, responses from the faculty member, and a summary analysis of student opinion. Since the mid-probationary review is intended to prepare faculty for later tenure review, the Provost writes to the faculty member with a copy to the School Dean, where applicable, and to the Department Chair indicating his/her assessment of the results. This assessment is also included in the personnel file, along with any response from the faculty member to the Provost.

The mid-probationary evaluation takes place in the third year of service for faculty with no credit for prior teaching. Faculty whose probationary period has been reduced in recognition of prior full-time teaching will have a mid-probationary evaluation according to the following timetable: those who have received one year’s credit at the time of their initial appointment will be evaluated in their third year of service; those who have received two years of credit will be evaluated in their second year of service; and those who have received three years of credit will be evaluated in their first year of service.

In the unusual circumstance in which a Department Chair is subject to mid probationary evaluation, the School Dean, where applicable, or if not, the full-time faculty member in the department with the most seniority at the College conducts the review.

3.9.5 EVALUATION OF PART-TIME FACULTY

In addition to evaluating full-time faculty, the Chair, assisted where appropriate by other members of the department, should evaluate part-time faculty who are likely to be considered for reappointment. The chief aim of such evaluation is to insure integration of part-time faculty into the department and to assist them in their professional and pedagogical development.
3.9.6 CRITERIA FOR EVALUATION

"The major commitment of the faculty of St. John Fisher College is excellence in teaching, with an emphasis on close interaction with students. To be effective in the classroom and to serve as models of academic excellence, faculty must also remain actively engaged in scholarship." [Excerpted from the St. John Fisher College Mission Statement]

Further, every faculty member has a service obligation to the College as a member of the collegium. Service to the profession and to the community complement this obligation.

No faculty member is expected to be equally active in scholarship and service, but excellence in one or more categories is not compensatory for the absence of effective professional performance in either teaching, scholarship, or service to the College.

3.9.6.1 Teaching Effectiveness. The attributes and qualifications by which a faculty member may demonstrate teaching effectiveness include, but are not necessarily limited to:

- a. command of and currency in an academic discipline;
- b. clear, logical, and imaginative organization and presentation of subject matter in the classroom;
- c. ability to provoke and broaden student interest in the subject matter;
- d. fairness, open-mindedness, integrity, and objectivity in teaching;
- e. effective use of teaching methods appropriate to the subject matter;
- f. development of new courses or programs and/or adjustments to existing courses;
- g. directing independent study and honors projects, and internships;
- h. receptivity to, and implementation of, constructive evaluation;
- i. involvement in activities designed to improve teaching and/or to enhance command of the subject, such as attending workshops and conferences, taking specialized courses, team-teaching, or teaching an honors course.

Documentation of teaching effectiveness may include, but is not necessarily limited to:

- a. self-evaluation;
- b. evaluation by Department Chair, and School Dean, where applicable, and/or Provost;
- c. peer evaluation;
- d. systematic gathering of student opinion;
- e. review of course syllabi, reading lists, exams and other relevant documents, such as independent study, honors, and internship projects.

3.9.6.2 Academic Advising. The faculty member’s responsibilities as an academic advisor may include, but are not necessarily limited to:

- a. academic advising and/or tutoring of one’s own students, designated advisees, and other students when appropriate;
- b. participation in academic enrichment activities, including advising student groups.
Documentation of effective advising may include, but is not necessarily limited to:

a. self-evaluation;

b. evaluation by Department Chair, the School Dean, where applicable, and/or Provost;

c. peer evaluations;

d. systematic gathering of student opinion.

3.9.6.3 Scholarship, Research, and Creative Work. Effective teaching necessitates active involvement in the intellectual and scholarly developments in a discipline. Scholarship is defined as a concrete demonstration or evidence of authority or expertise in one's academic field or discipline as adjudged through peer review. Because what is considered appropriate research may vary from discipline to discipline, research, performance or creative work should be evaluated in terms of its quality, as evidenced by:

a. publications (e.g., books, articles, and reviews published in refereed journals or academic presses; relevant professional publications), professional papers and speeches, projects, productions in the mass media, patents and/or inventions, performances, artistic exhibitions, and the results of acting as a professional consultant;

b. involvement in professional activities such as receipt of fellowships or grants, membership in professional organizations, attendance at professional conventions, conferences or institutes.

A peer reviewed demonstration of excellence in scholarship may include, but is not necessarily limited to:

a. juried and/or peer reviewed publications, and other noteworthy publications;

b. recognized achievement in the creative arts, mass media, or business/industrial community;

c. evaluation or statements by professional peers;

d. documented report of activities;

e. reviews and citation of research in other works;

f. professional honors and awards for completed projects and grants for prospective ones;

3.9.6.4 Service to the College. Productive service to the College may include, but is not necessarily limited to:

a. performance of department or program responsibilities, and initiative in the work of the department or program;

b. service on faculty committees and attendance at faculty meetings;

c. willingness to accept administrative assignments, including service on institutional committees and as Department Chair;

d. participation in academic fairs and other recruitment activities;

e. involvement in special college programs such as institutes, symposia, faculty colloquia, or public lectures;

f. service as advisor for or other participation in student activities; career or personal counseling of students when appropriate.

Demonstration of service activities may include, but is not necessarily limited to:

a. individual report of activities;

b. evaluation by Department Chair, the School Dean, where applicable, and/or Provost;

c. statements from a committee or committee chair or from the office sponsoring a particular activity (Enrollment Management, Student Academic Services, Student Life, Development, etc.);

d. report from outside sources.

3.9.6.5 Service to your Profession. Service to your profession may include, but is not necessarily limited to:

a. serving on an editorial board;

b. anonymous reviewing of scholarship;

c. participation in a peer review;

d. serving on the board or as an officer of a professional organization;

e. organizing a professional conference;

f. chairing a session or panel at a professional conference;

g. performing administrative work in a professional organization;

h. being an active member of a professional organization;

i. acting as a professional consultant.

Demonstration of professional service activities may include, but is not necessarily limited to:

a. individual report of activities;

b. evaluation by Department Chair, the School Dean, where applicable, and/or Provost;

c. statements from a committee or committee chair or from the office sponsoring a particular activity (Enrollment Management, Student Academic Services, Student Life, Development, etc.);

d. report from outside sources;

e. letters of invitation to review scholarly work.

3.9.6.6 Service to the Community. A faculty member may provide service to the community by working with people and/or organizations outside his/her professional field. Such service may include, but is not necessarily limited to:

a. service to community groups in a professional capacity.

b. lectures to non-professional, community groups;

c. participation and leadership in non-profit organizations designed to serve the general public.
Sources of documentation may include, but are not necessarily limited to:

a. individual report of activities, adequately documented and indicating, where not self-evident, amount of time spent;

b. community service awards;

c. testimony by leaders of community groups.
Part 10  Policies on Tenure

3.10.1  GENERAL STATEMENT

Academic tenure means that a faculty member is explicitly guaranteed the continuance of full-time appointment until retirement, resignation, or dismissal according to those provisions stipulated in Section 3.6.5h.

Tenure is a means to certain ends. Specifically, it allows freedom in teaching, research, and in extramural activities, and it provides a sufficient degree of economic security to make the profession attractive to individuals of ability. Tenure protects faculty members from untoward pressures from inside or outside the academic community; it also ensures academic freedom which is essential to the search for and free exposition of truth. Hence, tenure is indispensable to the success of the College in fulfilling its obligations to its students and to society.

3.10.2  ELIGIBILITY FOR TENURE

Tenure may be granted only to full-time faculty members, at the rank of Assistant Professor or above, who show promise of remaining productive members of the academic community and of the College and who are judged to have expertise which the College deems pertinent to the advancement of its educational goals.

A faculty member beginning a full-time appointment at the rank of Instructor or higher applies for tenure at the beginning of the sixth year. The decision of whether or not to grant tenure must be made at the end of the sixth year. The faculty member’s tenure contract, should tenure be granted, becomes effective in the eighth year of service.

Up to three years of full-time teaching at another institution of recognized standing may be counted toward the probationary period, but the precise terms of any such credit toward the probationary period must be set forth in the faculty member’s initial letter of appointment (cf. 3.6.5c). Any subsequent extension to the tenure timeline must be approved by the Chair or Graduate Program Director, Dean, Committee on Rank and Tenure, Provost, and President.

Time spent on sabbatical leave is counted toward the probationary period, unless the faculty member and the College agree in writing to the contrary at the time the sabbatical is granted. A leave of absence for less than an academic year will count toward the probationary period unless the faculty member and the College agree in writing to the contrary at the time the leave is granted or extended. A leave of absence for one academic year or more will not count toward the probationary period unless the faculty member and the College agree in writing to the contrary at the time the leave is granted or extended.

In rare instances where early tenure is granted, there is a one-year hiatus before the tenure contract becomes effective. Such an application for early tenure may only be granted when the faculty member shows extraordinary merit in teaching, scholarship and research, and institutional service.

It is also possible in unusual circumstances for tenure to be granted at the time of initial appointment. Such tenure ordinarily presumes tenure at another institution of recognized standing, a distinguished record of teaching, scholarship and research, and institutional service, plus the recommendation by majority vote of the department/program in which the faculty member is to be tenured.

3.10.3  PROCEDURES FOR DECISIONS ON TENURE

By September 1 of each year, the Provost advises individual faculty members who are entering the sixth year of their probationary period that they must be evaluated for tenure if they wish to be considered for reappointment on a tenure contract at the end of their probationary period. Copies of this letter are sent to the School Dean, the Department Chair or Graduate Program
Faculty Statutes  August 11, 2015

Director, and to the Chair of the Committee on Rank and Tenure. The Provost, in consultation with the appropriate Dean, will determine in which Department or Program the candidate will be evaluated for tenure; a candidate who has taught both undergraduate and graduate courses will normally submit the dossier to the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director of the Department or Program in which the majority of the candidate's teaching has occurred. The Office of the Provost will then send the list of tenured faculty required by the statutes to participate in the tenure review process to the Chair or Director overseeing the tenure review, as outlined in Section 3.10.5. The faculty member is instructed to submit a complete dossier in support of his/her tenure (and promotion, if applicable) to the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director by October 15. If the candidate is applying for promotion at the same time, the promotion and tenure cases are considered together, and the deadlines for tenure review apply in both cases. (See 3.11.) The Chair or Graduate Program Director then informs tenured members of the department/program of the pending case and arranges for them to examine the candidate's dossier.

In the unusual case of a proposed appointment with tenure, the Provost, in agreement with the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director, asks the Committee on Rank and Tenure to review the case. Documents submitted for review will include, at a minimum, a detailed curriculum vitae for the candidate, letters of recommendation from the search, a letter of support from the Chair or Program Director explaining the majority vote decision of the department or program, and a letter of support from the appropriate senior administrator. The Committee on Rank and Tenure shall review the case, vote, and recommend for or against tenure. If a majority of the Committee opposes the appointment with tenure, it may be pursued only in accordance with the procedures outlined in 3.10.7.

3.10.4 THE DOSSIER FOR TENURE

The candidate is responsible for providing an organized dossier of materials on which the tenure recommendation is based. This consists of 1) an updated curriculum vitae; 2) a detailed and reflective letter of application from the candidate that establishes a compelling case for his/her tenure based on the Criteria for Evaluation (3.9.6) while providing an articulate narrative and rationale for all documentation included in the dossier; 3) appropriate documentation, organized to support the letter of application and demonstrate the candidate's performance in all areas of Criteria for Evaluation (3.9.6) in which he/she has been active; and 4) a list of any recommendations the candidate has solicited from outside his/her own department/program or from outside the College. Such letters should be sent directly to the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director and must include at least one from an outside academic expert in the candidate’s field who can comment on the faculty member’s professional work. It is the Chair or Graduate Program Director’s responsibility to take the lead in keeping track of whether all letters sought by the candidate for the dossier are received and included.

A dossier that is complete, aside from these letters, must be received by the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director no later than October 15. The Office of the Provost will add systematic, uniform gatherings of student opinion (student course evaluations) by October 20. The dossier may not be changed after this date; however, the candidate may, by January 15th, submit a one-page update to the Chair or Graduate Program Director, the Dean, and the Committee on Rank and Tenure that is limited to changes in the status of items previously described in his/her letter of application. The candidate may also request that the Office of the Provost add to the dossier the student opinion (student course evaluations) gathered in the fall semester.

3.10.5 TENURE REVIEW BY DEPARTMENT / PROGRAM AND SCHOOL

As the time for tenure review is approaching, the Chair or Graduate Program Director confers with the tenured members of the department or program to arrange a schedule of classroom observations at times agreed to by the candidate. If the Chair or Graduate Program Director is not tenured, the senior tenured faculty member in the department or program will complete this task and oversee the review by fulfilling all other roles attributed to the Chair or Graduate Program Director. If there are no tenured members in the department/program, including the Chair or Graduate Program Director, the tasks attributed to the Chair or Graduate Program Director will be completed by a tenured member of another department/program or school mutually agreed upon by the candidate and the Provost. In the event that there are fewer than three tenured members in the department or program, the Chair or Graduate Program Director convenes a committee of three tenured faculty, mutually agreed upon by the faculty member under review and by the Chair or Director. Every tenured member involved in the review process must observe at least one class taught by the candidate.

When the classroom visits are complete, and when all tenured members have had access to the dossier, the Chair or Graduate Program Director calls a meeting of the tenured faculty in which the tenure case is discussed. After the discussion, the tenured members (including the Chair or Graduate Program Director) vote by signed ballot on the tenure case (and on promotion, if applicable). The Chair or Graduate Program Director then tallies the votes and announces the result to those voting, without indicating how any particular faculty member voted. Whatever the outcome of the vote, each tenured member writes to the Chair or Director explaining his/her decision. The Chair or Director is obliged to respect the confidentiality of these proceedings and should instruct department or program members to do the same.

By November 1, the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director forwards the dossier and all signed ballots and letters regarding the case to the School Dean and writes a detailed cover letter supporting or not supporting the case for tenure. The School Dean also writes a letter supporting or not supporting the case for tenure. If the Chair’s or Director's or Dean’s decision in the case does not reflect the majority view in the department or program, the cover letter should clearly state his/her reasons for dissent. In order to ensure the confidentiality of department/program members' recommendations in the case, no copies of their letters are retained in the department/program files. Originals are kept in the Provost’s Office and are available only to the Committee on Rank and Tenure, the School Dean, the Provost, and the President. By November 15th, the School Dean forwards the candidate’s dossier along with the Dean’s recommendation to the Provost.

3.10.6 TENURE REVIEW BY THE COMMITTEE ON RANK AND TENURE

The Provost forwards all tenure cases, along with supporting dossiers and letters, to the Committee on Rank and Tenure by December 1. All Committee members will review each case. Although it is not a common practice, the Committee on Rank and Tenure may request the School Dean, the Chair or Graduate Program Director or other members of the candidate's department or program who voted on the case to appear before it to present further information concerning the tenure review. The Committee may also seek additional information from the candidate’s references and from any sources of information detailed in Section 3.9. The Committee votes on each case and sends its recommendation, along with any necessary supporting documents, to the candidate, Department Chair or Graduate Program Director, School Dean, Provost and President by May 15. The Provost will also send his or her recommendation to the candidate, Department Chair or Graduate Program Director, School Dean, Rank and Tenure Committee, and President no later than May 20. After this date, and upon request of the candidate, the Provost shall inform the candidate of the disposition of each level of review.

Apart from its recommendation, all other communications and deliberations of the Committee, written and oral, shall be considered confidential. Rank and Tenure Committee members will abstain from formal deliberations and abstain from voting for candidates when they are also serving as that candidate’s Department Chair or Graduate Program Director. The Committee on Rank and Tenure will take note of the Chair or Director’s decision in the cover letter for that candidate.
3.10.7 ACTIONS ON RECOMMENDATIONS FOR TENURE

Upon receipt of written recommendations on tenure from the Committee on Rank and Tenure, from the School Dean, and from the Provost, the President prepares a recommendation to the Board of Trustees. If the President is inclined to recommend contrary to the Committee on Rank and Tenure, he/she meets with the Committee prior to submitting a recommendation to the Board of Trustees. The Committee, in its discretion, may choose to discuss the reasons for its recommendation with the President in this meeting.

All grants of tenure and tenure decisions are made by the Board of Trustees, after it has been informed of the recommendations of the President, the Provost, the Committee on Rank and Tenure, the School Dean, and the individual department or program via the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director.

When the Board of Trustees makes its decision on tenure, the President communicates the decision in writing to the candidate, Department Chair or Graduate Program Director, School Dean, Provost, and Chair of the Committee on Rank and Tenure. This written communication should take place within one week of the June meeting of the Board of Trustees. The decision of the Board in all tenure cases is final. The Board may reconsider its original tenure decision if, as a result of a candidate's tenure grievance, a grievance committee upholds the grievance or the President changes his/her original recommendation to the Board.

3.10.8 QUICK REFERENCE CHART FOR TENURE (OR TENURE AND PROMOTION) DEADLINES

It is expected that these deadlines will be kept. Failure strictly to adhere to them, however, does not constitute a procedural violation on which an appeal for the reversal of a negative decision can be based.

Part 11  Promotion Procedures

3.11.1  GENERAL STATEMENT

As an institution of higher learning, St. John Fisher College continually seeks to enhance its academic stature. This goal is best achieved by maintaining and improving the quality of the faculty. Promotion in academic rank is a means by which the College encourages, recognizes and rewards faculty members for excellence in the performance of their duties.

3.11.2  ELIGIBILITY FOR PROMOTION

Faculty members are promoted on the basis of their fulfilling qualifications discussed in this section; in Section 3.9, Faculty Evaluation; and in Section 3.8.6. Application for promotion should be made when the faculty member perceives that he/she meets the requirements for rank outlined in Section 3.8.6.

3.11.3  INITIATING REVIEW FOR PROMOTION

The Provost writes to all full-time faculty by September 1 of each year informing them that applications for promotion must be submitted to Department Chairs or Graduate Program Directors by October 15. The individual faculty member initiates the promotion process by requesting a meeting with the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director to review his/her case and the needs and plans of the department/program. This meeting should take place by October 1. If the faculty member wishes to pursue his/her promotion case on the basis of this meeting, he/she informs the Chair or Graduate Program Director. The Chair or Graduate Program Director will inform the Provost, who, in consultation with the appropriate Dean, will determine in which Department or Program the candidate will be evaluated for promotion; a candidate who has taught both undergraduate and graduate courses will normally submit the dossier to the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director of the Department or Program in which the majority of the candidate's teaching has occurred. The Office of the Provost will then send the list of tenured faculty required by the statutes to participate in the promotion review process to the Chair or Director overseeing the promotion review.

In the event that there are fewer than three tenured members in a department or program, the Chair or Graduate Program Director convenes a committee of three tenured faculty, mutually agreed upon by the faculty member under review and by the Chair or Director. If the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director applies for promotion, the senior tenured faculty member in the department or program will complete this task and oversee the review by fulfilling all other roles attributed to the Chair or Director. If there are no tenured members in the department/program, including the Chair or Director, the tasks attributed to the Chair or Director will be completed by a tenured member of another department/program or school mutually agreed upon by the candidate and the Provost.

The Chair or Graduate Program Director notifies the tenured members of the department/program that the faculty member in question is applying for promotion, and that the member will supply a dossier to the Chair or Graduate Program Director by October 15.

For faculty who are in the sixth year of their probationary period and must be considered for tenure, the same dates apply for both tenure and promotion.

3.11.4  THE DOSSIER FOR PROMOTION

The candidate is responsible for providing an organized dossier of materials on which the promotion recommendation is based. This consists of 1) an updated curriculum vitae; 2) a detailed and reflective letter of application from the candidate that establishes a compelling case for his/her promotion based on the Criteria for Evaluation (3.9.6) while providing an articulate narrative and rationale for all documentation included in the dossier; 3) appropriate documentation organized to support the letter of application and demonstrate the candidate's performance in all areas of Criteria for Evaluation (3.9.6) in which he/she has been active; and 4) a list of any recommendations the candidate has solicited from outside his/her own department/program or from outside the College. Such letters should be sent directly to the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director and must include at least one from an outside academic expert in the candidate's field who can comment on the faculty member's professional work. It is the Chair or Graduate Program Director's responsibility to take the lead in keeping track of whether all letters sought by the candidate for the dossier are received and included. A dossier that is complete, aside from these letters, must be received by the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director no later than October 15. The Office of the Provost will add systematic, uniform gatherings of student opinion (student course evaluations) by October 20. The dossier may not be changed after this date; however, the candidate may, by January 15th, submit a one-page update to the Chair or Program Director, the Dean, and the Committee on Rank and Tenure that is limited to changes in the status of items previously described in his/her letter of application. The candidate may also request that the Office of the Provost add to the dossier the student opinion (student course evaluations) gathered in the fall semester.

3.11.5 DEPARTMENTAL / PROGRAM REVIEW FOR PROMOTION

The Chair or Graduate Program Director confers with the tenured members of the department or program to arrange a schedule of classroom observations at times agreed to by the candidate. Every tenured member involved in the review process must observe at least one class taught by the candidate.

When the classroom visits are complete and all tenured members have had access to the dossier, the Chair or Graduate Program Director calls a meeting in which the promotion case is discussed. After the discussion, the members (including the Chair or Graduate Program Director) vote by signed ballot on the case. The Chair or Graduate Program Director then tallies the votes and announces the result to those voting, without indicating how any particular faculty member voted. If the department/program vote is unanimous, all members may simply sign the letter that the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director writes and sends to the School Dean in the next step of the process (see next paragraph). If the department/program vote is not unanimous, each department/program member writes a detailed letter explaining his/her individual vote. If fewer than a majority have approved, the Chair or Graduate Program Director informs the candidate, who may choose to withdraw the application for promotion. If the candidate does not withdraw the application, those voting proceed as above, writing individually to the Chair or Graduate Program Director explaining their decision. The Chair or Graduate Program Director is obliged to respect the confidentiality of these proceedings and should instruct department or program members to do the same.

By November 1, the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director forwards the dossier and all signed ballots and letters regarding the case to the School Dean, and writes a cover letter supporting or not supporting the promotion. The School Dean also writes a letter supporting or not supporting the case for promotion. If the Chair or Graduate Program Director's or Dean's decision in the case does not reflect the majority view in the department/program, the cover letter should clearly state his/her reasons for dissent. In order to ensure the confidentiality of department/program members' recommendations in the case, no copies of their letters are retained in the department/program files. Originals are kept in the Office of the Provost and are available only to the Committee on Rank and Tenure, the School Dean, the Provost, and the President. By November 15th, the School Dean forwards the candidate's dossier along with the Dean's recommendation to the Provost.

3.11.6 PROMOTION REVIEW BY THE COMMITTEE ON RANK AND TENURE

The Provost forwards all promotion cases, along with supporting dossiers and letters, to the Committee on Rank and Tenure by December 1. All committee members review each case. Although it is not a common practice, the Committee on Rank and Tenure may request the School Dean, the Chair or Graduate Program Director, or other members of the candidate’s department/program who voted on the case to appear before it to present further information concerning the application. The Committee may also seek additional information from the candidate’s references and from any sources of information detailed in Section 3.9. The committee votes on each case and sends its recommendation, along with any necessary supporting documents, to the President by May 15. Copies of the letter of recommendation are sent to the candidate, the Provost, the School Dean, and the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director. The Provost will also send his or her recommendation to the candidate, Department Chair or Graduate Program Director, School Dean, Rank and Tenure Committee, and President, no later than May 20. After this date, and upon request of the candidate, the Provost shall inform the candidate of the disposition of each level of review.

Apart from its recommendation, all other communications and deliberations of the Committee, written and oral, shall be considered confidential. Rank and Tenure Committee members will abstain from formal discussions and abstain from voting for candidates when they are also serving as that candidate’s Department Chair or Graduate Program Director. The Committee on Rank and Tenure will take note of the Chair or Director’s decision in the cover letter for that candidate.

3.11.7 ACTIONS ON RECOMMENDATIONS FOR PROMOTION

Upon receipt of written recommendations on promotion from the Committee on Rank and Tenure, from the School Dean, and from the Provost, the President prepares a recommendation to the Board of Trustees. If the President is inclined to recommend contrary to the Committee on Rank and Tenure, he/she meets with the committee prior to submitting a recommendation to the Board of Trustees. The Committee, in its discretion, may choose to discuss the reasons for its recommendation with the President in this meeting.

All promotions and promotion decisions are made by the Board of Trustees, after it has been informed of the recommendations of the President, the Provost, the School Dean, the Committee on Rank and Tenure, and the individual department or program via the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director.

When the Board of Trustees makes its decision on promotion, the President communicates the decision in writing to the candidate, the Provost, the School Dean, the Chair of the Committee on Rank and Tenure, and the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director. This written communication should take place within one week of the June meeting of the Board of Trustees. The decision of the Board on all matters of promotion is final. The Board may reconsider its original promotion decision if, as a result of a candidate’s promotion grievance, a grievance committee upholds the grievance or the President changes his/her original recommendation to the Board.

3.11.8 QUICK REFERENCE CHART FOR PROMOTION DEADLINE

It is expected that these deadlines will be kept. Failure strictly to adhere to them, however, does not constitute a procedural violation on which an appeal for the reversal of a negative decision can be based.

Part 12  Resignation of Faculty Members

3.12.1  When faculty members decide to resign they should notify the chair of the department and School Dean, where applicable, as soon as possible.

3.12.2  A faculty member who decides not to accept a contract should notify the President in writing and return the unsigned contract as soon as possible. The contract must be returned thirty calendar days from its date of reception by the faculty member. Failure to return the contract within this time will be understood as the resignation of the faculty member, unless an extension is granted in writing by the President of the College.

3.12.3  Pre-emptory resignation at a very late date inflicts a real hardship on the institution and is considered by the profession to be an ethically questionable practice.
Part 13 Academic Due Process

3.13.1 PRELIMINARY PROCEEDINGS CONCERNING THE FITNESS OF A FACULTY MEMBER. When reason arises to question the fitness of a college or university faculty member who has tenure or whose term appointment has not expired, the appropriate administrative officers should ordinarily discuss the matter with him/her in personal conference. The matter may be terminated by mutual consent at this point; but if an adjustment does not result, the Rank and Tenure Committee elected by the faculty and charged with the function of rendering confidential advice in such situations should informally inquire into the situation, to effect an adjustment if possible and, if none is effected, to determine whether in its view formal proceedings to consider his/her dismissal should be instituted. If the Committee recommends that such proceedings should be begun, or if the President of the institution, even after considering a recommendation of the Committee favorable to the faculty member, expresses his conviction that a proceeding should be undertaken, action should be commenced under the procedures which follow. Except where there is disagreement, a statement with reasonable particularity of the grounds proposed for the dismissal should then be jointly formulated by the President and the faculty committee; if there is disagreement, the President or his representative should formulate the statement.

If a member of the Rank and Tenure Committee is involved as one of the principals in a case, that person shall not sit on the Committee when it investigates that case.

3.13.2 COMMENCEMENT OF FORMAL PROCEEDINGS. The formal proceedings should be commenced by a communication addressed to the faculty member by the President of the institution, informing the faculty member that, if he/she so requests, a hearing to determine whether removal from his/her faculty position on the grounds stated will be conducted by a faculty committee at a specified time and place. In setting the date of the hearing, sufficient time should be allowed the faculty member to prepare a defense. The faculty member should be informed, in detail or by reference to published regulations, of the procedural rights that will be accorded to him/her. The faculty member should state in reply whether he/she wishes a hearing and, if so, should answer in writing, not less than one week before the date set for the hearing, the statements in the President's letter.

3.13.3 SUSPENSION OF THE FACULTY MEMBER. Suspension of the faculty member during the proceedings involving him/her is justified only if immediate harm to himself/herself or others is threatened by his continuance. Unless legal considerations forbid, any such suspension should be with pay.

3.13.4 THE HEARING COMMITTEE. This Committee shall be an ad hoc committee called into being by the Rank and Tenure Committee after its preliminary investigation has determined there is cause for a formal hearing. The membership of this Committee will be constituted of five tenured faculty members - one chosen by the defendant, one chosen by the President of the College, two elected by the tenured faculty, one chosen by the preceding four members, who will then elect a Chair from among themselves.

At the request of a non-tenured faculty member the Committee on Rank and Tenure may call an ad hoc hearing committee into being. The membership of this Committee will be constituted of five full-time faculty members - one chosen by the defendant, one chosen by the President of the College, two elected by the full-time teaching faculty, and one chosen by the preceding four members of the Committee, who will then elect a Chair from among themselves.

3.13.5 COMMITTEE PROCEEDING. The Committee should proceed by considering the statement of grounds for dismissal already formulated, and the faculty member's response written before the time of the hearing. If the faculty member has not requested a hearing, the Committee should consider the case on the basis of the obtainable information and decide whether he/she should be removed; otherwise the hearing should go forward. The Committee, in consultation with the President and the faculty member, should exercise its judgment as to whether the hearing should be public or private. If any facts are in dispute, the testimony of witnesses and other evidence concerning the matter set forth in the President's letter to the faculty member should be received.

The President should have the option of attendance during the hearing. He/she may designate an appropriate representative to assist in developing the case; but the Committee should determine the order of proof, should normally conduct the questioning of witnesses, and, if necessary, should secure the presentation of evidence important to the case.

The faculty member should have the option of assistance by counsel, whose functions should be similar to those of the representative chosen by the President. The faculty member should have the additional procedural rights set forth in the 1970 STATEMENT OF PRINCIPLES ON ACADEMIC FREEDOM AND TENURE, and should have the aid of the Committee, when needed, in securing the attendance of witnesses. The faculty member or his/her counsel and the representative designated by the President should have the right, within reasonable limits, to question all witnesses who testify orally.

The faculty member should have the opportunity to be confronted by all witnesses adverse to him/her. Where unusual and urgent reasons move the Hearing Committee to withhold this right, or where witnesses cannot appear, the identity of witnesses, as well as their statements, should nevertheless be disclosed to the faculty member. Subject to these safeguards, statements may when necessary be taken outside the hearing and reported to it. All of the evidence should be duly recorded. Unless special circumstances warrant, it should not be necessary to follow formal rules of court procedure.

3.13.6 CONSIDERATION BY HEARING COMMITTEE. The Committee should reach its decision in conference, on the basis of the hearing. Before doing so, it should give opportunity to the faculty member or his/her counsel and the representative designated by the President to argue orally before it. If written briefs would be helpful, the Committee may request them. The Committee may proceed to decision promptly, without having the record of the hearing transcribed, where it feels that a just decision can be reached by this means; or it may await the availability of a transcript of the hearing if its decision would be aided thereby. It should make explicit findings with respect to each of the grounds of removal presented, and a reasoned opinion may be desirable. Publicity concerning the Committee's decision may properly be withheld until consideration has been given to the case by the governing body of the institution. The President and the faculty member should be notified of the decision in writing and should be given a copy of the record of the hearing. Any release to the public should be made through the President's Office.

3.13.7 CONSIDERATION BY GOVERNING BODY. The President should transmit to the governing body the full report of the Hearing Committee, stating its action. On the assumption that the governing board has accepted the principle of the faculty Hearing Committee, acceptance of the Committee's decision would normally be expected. If the governing body chooses to review the case, its review should be based on the record of the previous hearing, accompanied by opportunity for argument, oral or written or both, by the principals at the hearing or their representatives. The decision of the Hearing Committee should either be sustained or the proceeding be returned to the Committee with objections specified. In such a case the Committee should reconsider, taking account of the stated objections and receiving new evidence if necessary. It should frame its decision and communicate it in the same manner as before. Only after study of the Committee's reconsideration should the governing body make a final decision overruling the Committee.

3.13.8 PUBLICITY. Except for such announcements as may be required, covering the time of the hearing and similar matters, public statements about the case either by the faculty member or administrative officers should be avoided so far as possible until the proceedings have been completed. Announcements of the final decision should include a statement of the Hearing Committee's original action, if this has not previously been made known.
Part 14  Leaves of Absence

3.14.1 Recognizing the professional, personal, and medical needs of the faculty, the College provides several types of leaves of absence.

Paid leaves of absence are available only to full-time teaching faculty members of the College.

Time spent on sabbatical leave is counted toward the probationary period, unless the faculty member and the College agree in writing to waive this provision at the time the sabbatical is granted. A non-sabbatical leave of absence for less than an academic year will count toward the probationary period unless the faculty member and the College agree in writing to the contrary at the time the leave is granted. A non-sabbatical leave of absence for one academic year or more will not count toward the probationary period unless the faculty member and the College agree in writing to the contrary at the time the leave is granted.

In addition to the leaves described in this section, the College makes other types of leave available to faculty as required by law. These include jury duty leave, leave for blood donation or bone marrow donation, and military or military spouse leave. Details of these leaves may be found in the College’s Employee Handbook or by consulting Human Resources.

3.14.2 Sabbatical leaves

1. Purpose: The College recognizes the need to assist full-time teaching faculty members in their professional growth and development as scholars and teachers through new or renewed research, study, writing, or travel.

2. There are two kinds of sabbatical leaves:
   a) for a full academic year at one-half salary;
   b) for one semester at full salary.

In either case the College shall continue to cover the faculty member with its full benefit program during the sabbatical leave.

3. Eligibility:
   a) A sabbatical leave is not earned automatically through length of service at the College.

   b) A faculty member becomes eligible for a sabbatical leave upon completing at least six years of full-time service at the College. Faculty members who have already received a sabbatical leave may re-apply for such leave after an additional six years of full-time service. Exceptions shall be made only by a written agreement of the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director involved, the School Dean, the Provost and the President of the College.

   c) A request for a sabbatical leave shall include a specific study proposal in writing outlining how the leave is to be used and a listing of expected professional benefits to the faculty member, the College, and academic life in general.

   d) The College may deny requests for sabbatical leaves for reasons which include but are not limited to:
      i. The financial state of the College;
      ii. Requests from other faculty members in the same or related areas.

4. Full-time, paid employment (such as teaching at another college) while holding a paid sabbatical leave is incompatible with the purposes of sabbatical leaves and is prohibited unless the College and the faculty member agree in writing before the sabbatical begins. If a faculty member holding a paid sabbatical leave is gainfully employed by another employer (in contrast to holding a study or research grant), the College reserves the right to reduce the amount of the College’s sabbatical pay and benefits accordingly.

5. Procedures:

a) Faculty members requesting a sabbatical, whether for a fall semester, a spring semester, or an entire academic year, must submit their request and study proposal to their Department Chair or Graduate Program Director, School Dean and Provost no later than November 1 of the preceding academic year. The study proposal must include: 1) a detailed description of the planned project with a delineation of outcomes, timeline and feasibility; 2) a clear statement of how the proposed sabbatical will contribute to the faculty member’s professional development; and 3) the relevance of the proposal to departmental mission, goals and teaching responsibilities.

b) On or before December 1, the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director will forward the sabbatical request and study proposal, along with a positive or negative recommendation and its rationale, to the School Dean. The Department Chair or Graduate Program Director, in consultation with the School Dean, will identify in writing the plan for covering courses during the proposed sabbatical time. All of this information, along with a positive or negative recommendation and its rationale by the School Dean, must be forwarded to the Provost on or before January 10th.

c) On the basis of these recommendations and his/her own awareness of College priorities, needs, and financial resources, the number and academic areas of other sabbatical requests, the apparent soundness of the proposal, and any other factors listed in Section 3(d) above, the Provost shall make a recommendation for or against approval to the President. All grants of sabbatical leave and sabbatical decisions are made by the Board of Trustees, after it has been informed of the recommendations of the President, the Provost, the School Dean and the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director. When the Board of Trustees makes its decision on sabbatical leaves, the President communicates the decision in writing to the faculty member, Department Chair or Graduate Program Director, School Dean and Provost.

6. Post-sabbatical leave policies:

a) The faculty member accepts the obligation to return to the College for at least one semester directly after the sabbatical unless this understanding is waived in writing by the President.

b) The faculty member shall submit a written report on the sabbatical for the information of the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director, the School Dean, the Provost, and the President no later than midway through the first semester back at the College even if the entire project is not yet complete. A subsequent report, if needed, covering the completed project may be submitted later.

c) The submission of such a report will be one factor in determining whether or not future sabbatical requests will be honored.

3.14.3 Medical leaves

1. The College offers medical leaves of absence for faculty members whose illness or injury prevents them from teaching or performing the other essential duties of their position.

2. Full-time teaching faculty members on medical leave will receive full salary and benefits during their period of medical disability up to a maximum of six months.

3. If a full-time teaching faculty member is unable to return to work after six months, he/she may be eligible to apply for long term disability or Social Security disability benefits to replace partial salary. Detailed information on health insurance, long term disability, and Social Security disability benefit coverage may be obtained from the Human Resources Department.

4. A faculty member’s pregnancy and/or childbirth-related conditions that prevent her from teaching or performing the essential duties of her position qualifies her for medical leave for the duration of the medical disability.

5. Additional child care or parental leave may be requested following the birth or adoption of a child pursuant to the College’s Family and Medical Leave (FMLA) policy (See section 3.14.4.) or personal leave policy.

6. Medical leaves, whether paid or unpaid, run concurrently with any applicable FMLA leave pursuant to section 3.14.4.

7. A request for a medical leave of absence must be made to the Human Resources Department. The Human Resources Department will provide necessary forms and information including any coordination with FMLA leave. While faculty members are not required or expected to discuss any details of their medical condition with their Department Chair or Graduate Program Director or Dean, the faculty member is expected and encouraged to discuss, if possible, the timing and expected length of the leave and any outstanding work duties with their Department Chair or Graduate Program Director or Dean, and to periodically keep their Chair or Dean advised of their work status and likely return date.

3.14.4 Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) leaves

It is the policy of the College to grant Family and Medical Leave (“FMLA Leave”) to eligible faculty in accordance with the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 (FMLA). This policy describes your right to obtain family and medical leave and how this leave relates to the College’s other benefits. While the FMLA does not require employers to provide pay during FMLA leaves, the College does provide salary continuation to eligible full-time teaching faculty members who are on a concurrent medical leave under Policy 3.14.3, up to six (6) months.

1. Eligibility:

You are eligible to take family and medical leave if, at the time your leave would commence, you have been employed by the College for at least twelve months, have worked at least 1,250 hours in the preceding twelve (12) month period, and work at a location where at least 50 employees are employed at the location or within 75 miles of the location. For all FMLA leaves, other than Military Caregiver Leave (defined below), an eligible faculty member may take up to 12 weeks of leave in any rolling 12-month period measured backward from the date he/she uses any such FMLA leave. This means that at any point in time, the amount of leave available for such FMLA leave is 12 weeks less the amount of leave used during the preceding 12 months.

2. Reasons for Leave:

If you are eligible, you may take family and medical leave for any of the following purposes:

a) The birth of your child or the placement of a child with you either through adoption or foster care, and to care for that child in the first 12 months after childbirth or placement. Leave for the birth or placement of a child must be taken all in one block and must conclude within one (1) year of the birth or placement.
If the College employs both spouses and both spouses request leaves for the birth, adoption or foster care placement of a child, for the care of that child, or to care for a parent (but not a parent “in law”) with a serious health condition, then the aggregate, combined leave for both employees for that purpose shall be limited to 12 weeks during any rolling 12-month period.

b) To care for your spouse, parent or child who has a serious health condition as described below.

c) To care for yourself because of a serious health condition, as described below, that prevents you from performing the essential functions of your job.

A serious health condition is an illness, injury, impairment, or physical or mental condition that involves (1) an overnight stay in a medical care facility; or (2) continuing treatment by a health care provider. A serious health condition that requires continuing treatment by a health care provider includes one or more of the following: (a) a period of incapacity of more than three full consecutive days, and any subsequent treatment or period of incapacity that also involves treatment two or more times by a health care provider or treatment by a health care provider on one occasion plus a regimen of continuing treatment; (b) pregnancy or prenatal care; (c) a period of incapacity or treatment for a chronic serious health condition; (d) a period of incapacity which is permanent or long-term such as for Alzheimer’s or a severe stroke; (e) a period of absence to receive multiple treatments by a health care provider.

d) Qualifying Exigency Leave: Eligible employees with a spouse, son, daughter, or parent on covered active duty in the Armed Forces or under a call or order to covered active duty in the National Guard or Reserves may use their 12-week leave entitlement to address certain qualifying exigencies. Qualifying exigencies may include short-notice deployment, military events and related activities, arranging for alternative childcare and certain other childcare and school activities, addressing certain financial and legal arrangements, attending certain counseling sessions, attending post-deployment activities, rest and recuperation, and any other activities that the employee and the College agree upon.

e) Military Caregiver Leave (also known as Covered Service member Leave): You may take a special leave of up to 26 weeks during a "single 12-month period" to care for a Covered Service member if you are the spouse, child, parent, or next of kin of the Covered Service member. “Covered Service member” means (a) a member of the Armed Forces, including a member of the National Guard or Reserves, who is undergoing medical treatment, recuperation, or therapy, is otherwise in outpatient status, or is otherwise on the temporary disability retired list, for a serious injury or illness incurred in, or aggravated by service in, the line of duty on active duty, or (b) a veteran undergoing medical treatment, recuperation or therapy for a serious injury or illness incurred in, or aggravated by service in, the line of duty on active duty, where the veteran was a member of the Armed Forces, National Guard, or Reserves within five years preceding the treatment.

The "single 12-month period" for the purpose of Military Caregiver Leave begins on the first day the eligible employee takes FMLA leave to care for a Covered Service member and ends 12 months after that date. This type of leave is to be applied on a per-covered-service member, per-injury basis such that an eligible employee may only take one 26 week period of leave for the same service member with the same injury; however, an eligible employee may be entitled to take more than one period of 26 weeks of leave if the leave is to care for different service members or to care for the same service member with a subsequent serious injury or illness, except that no more than 26 workweeks of leave may be taken within any single 12-month period.
If the College employs both spouses and one or both spouses take Military Caregiver Leave, they are limited to a combined total of up to 26 weeks of leave during the single 12-month period depending upon the type and length of leave taken.

3. During the Leave:

While you are on leave, you may continue in the College’s health benefit plans under the same terms and conditions as active employees. You must pay your normal share of the plan costs on time during your leave time. If you do not pay the premiums on time, the College has the right to discontinue coverage. If you participate in the College’s Flexible Spending Account, you may pay for your anticipated premiums during the leave on a pre-tax basis by accelerating your payments and taking them out of any paycheck you have earned prior to taking the leave. Other benefits will not normally be continued during unpaid leave, but may be continued if a particular benefit plan authorizes benefits for employees on unpaid leave. Use of FMLA leave will not result in the loss of any employment benefits that accrued prior to the start of your FMLA leave. If you do not return to work after the leave for reasons other than health conditions or some other reason beyond your control, the College will recover the cost from you of any payments made to maintain your health insurance coverage. While you are on leave, the College may require you to report periodically on your status and intent to return to work.

4. Procedures:

In general, if the need for leave is foreseeable, you must provide the Human Resources Department thirty (30) days advance notice before commencing FMLA leave; for Qualifying Exigency Leave, you must provide notice as soon as practicable. If you are unable to foresee the need for any FMLA leave 30 days in advance, then you must provide the College notice as soon as practicable and must comply with the College’s call-in procedures. In giving notice, you must provide sufficient information for the Human Resources Department to determine if the leave may qualify for FMLA protection and the anticipated timing and duration of the leave. Required information may include, for example, that you are unable to perform job functions, the family member is unable to perform daily activities, the need for hospitalization or continuing treatment by a health care provider, or circumstances supporting the need for military leave. You must also inform the College if the requested leave is for a reason for which FMLA leave was previously taken or certified.

Upon receipt of medical certification of the medical need for leave on an intermittent or reduced schedule basis, the College will grant such leave for purposes of your own serious health condition or to care for a parent, child or spouse with a serious health condition, or for Military Caregiver Leave. Leave may also be taken on an intermittent or reduced schedule basis when necessary for Qualified Exigency Leave. If intermittent or reduced schedule leave is needed for planned medical treatment for the faculty member, a family member, or a covered service member, including during a period of recovery from one’s own serious health condition, a serious health condition of a spouse, parent, son or daughter, or a serious injury or illness of a covered service member, the College may require you to transfer temporarily, during the period that the intermittent or reduced leave schedule is required, to an available alternative position for which you are qualified and which better accommodates recurring periods of leave than does your regular position. You will receive your same salary while working in the alternate position.

If the leave is requested for purposes of planned medical treatment for you or your spouse, parent or child, you must make a reasonable effort to schedule the treatment so as not to disrupt unduly the College’s operations and the courses and job duties already underway or assigned to you. You are expected to consult with the College prior to the scheduling of treatment in order to work out a treatment schedule that best suits the needs of both you and the College.

After you have requested FMLA leave, the Human Resources Department will inform you whether you are eligible under the FMLA, and if not, let you know the reason for ineligibility. This notice will specify additional information required from you as well as your rights and responsibilities. The Human Resources Department will inform you if leave will be designated as FMLA leave or not and the amount of leave counted against your leave entitlement (where the amount of leave to be taken is known).

The College may condition its approval of a leave for purposes of personal or family illness or to care for a Covered Service member on your submission of a satisfactory medical certification from the employee’s, family member’s, or Covered Service member’s health care provider. The Human Resources Department will provide you with the certification form for this purpose, and it is your responsibility to ensure that the health care provider submits a fully completed form to the College within 15 days. The College has the right to obtain a second opinion at its expense on the need for you to take family and medical leave. If the first and second opinions differ, the College, at its own expense, may require the binding opinion of a third health care provider, approved jointly by the College and you. The College may also require certification for Qualifying Exigency Leave. You must provide a complete and sufficient certification to the College; if you do not, the College will give you seven calendar days to cure any such deficiency. The College may also require you to submit periodic re-certifications throughout the leave, but generally will not do so more often than every 30 days unless there is a change in circumstances or other circumstances warranting an earlier recertification. Failure to provide an appropriate certification or recertification, upon request, may result in the denial of leave. FMLA certification forms are available from the Human Resources Department.

5. Returning to Work:

When you are able to return to work, if you have complied with your obligations under this policy, the College will restore you to your same job or an equivalent position and restore all benefit programs for which you are eligible, unless business conditions resulted in the elimination of your former position during the leave or you would not otherwise have continued to be employed had you continued in active employment. The College however, may refuse to restore those employees considered to be “key,” for purposes of the Family and Medical Leave Act, to their previous positions under certain circumstances.

If you took leave due to your own serious health condition, you must submit a certificate of fitness from your health care provider before you begin work. Reinstatement may be delayed until a satisfactory medical certification has been provided. If you do not provide a fitness-for-duty certification at the time FMLA leave for your own serious health condition is concluded, your employment may be terminated.

6. Miscellaneous:

Leave taken as part of another benefit plan or under any other leave of absence policy will count as FMLA leave if the reason for the leave otherwise meets the standard for FMLA leave. You must satisfy the procedural requirements of the benefit plan or other leave of absence policy in order to qualify for that benefit or leave of absence.

The College has the authority and the responsibility to take all steps necessary to administer this leave policy, including deciding which absences from work will be charged to family and medical leave time. To the extent consistent with applicable law, the College has the responsibility to interpret this policy and to decide any issues not expressly addressed by it. The College may at any time change this policy, provided such changes accord with applicable law.

The FMLA makes it unlawful for any employer to interfere with, restrain, or deny the exercise of any right provided under FMLA; or to discharge or discriminate against any person for opposing any practice made unlawful by FMLA or for involvement in any proceeding under or relating to the FMLA. A faculty member may file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Labor or may bring a private lawsuit against an employer. FMLA does not affect any federal or state law prohibiting discrimination, or supersede any state or local law or collective bargaining agreement which provides greater family or medical leave rights. If you have any questions about your exercise of FMLA rights, please contact the Human Resources Department.
Nothing in the family and medical leave policy insulates you from the application of any other College policies, i.e., while on family and medical leave you remain subject to all changes that may occur in the College’s health care program and are subject to all other employment-related policies of general applicability, including layoff. The policies and guidelines stated in this Family and Medical Leave Policy shall be subject to such other terms and conditions as are provided in the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 and applicable state leave laws.

For further information regarding FMLA procedures, please contact the Human Resources Department.

3.14.5 Other leaves without pay (collectively “Personal leaves without pay”)

1. The College recognizes that there may be academic, personal, or community needs which arise outside the framework of the leaves of absence discussed above. When possible the College will seek to honor such leave requests from faculty members.

2. Personal leaves without pay are usually for one semester or, at the most, for one academic year. Exceptions may be made only with the specific written request from the faculty member to the President of the College, through the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director, the School Dean, and the Provost. A leave of more than one year is ordinarily not approved unless the extension is essential to the needs of the faculty member and is also suitable to the needs of the College.

3. During personal leaves without pay, the faculty member is not paid his/her salary nor is he/she covered by the College's benefit programs unless required by law (e.g. COBRA) or an exception is granted in writing by the President before the leave begins. Any requests for special arrangements involving the College's benefit programs shall be included in the faculty member's application for a personal leave without pay.

4. Written application for a personal leave without pay should be made at least one semester before the leave is to begin. The application is made to the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director, the School Dean, and Provost. The Department Chair or Graduate Program Director shall promptly forward his positive or negative recommendation, including its rationale, to the Provost. After consultation with the School Dean, the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director (and, if necessary, the individual faculty member), the Provost shall forward the request with full documentation, including his/her own positive or negative recommendation and its rationale to the President for his/her decision. The President shall communicate his/her decision to the faculty member, with copies of his/her response to the Provost, the School Dean, and the Department Chair or Graduate Program Director.
Part 15  Faculty Grievance Procedures

3.15.1  Intent

To support and promote principles of equity and fairness, the College has established these grievance procedures. Grievances may be voiced without fear of reprisal and heard without prejudice. The College encourages the prompt settlement of grievances by informal exchange, direct or mediated, between the principals involved. It also recognizes the need, where such negotiations do not suffice, to provide formal procedures that can resolve the disagreement through equitable consideration of the matter in dispute.

3.15.2  Definition

For purposes of these procedures, a “grievance” is defined as a claim by a member of the teaching faculty (hereinafter, the “grievant”) that there has been an alleged breach, misinterpretation, or misapplication of the policies or procedures in the Faculty Statutes with regard to appointment or reappointment, compensation, suspension, dismissal, reassignment, or termination.

Provisions for grievances involving promotion and tenure decisions are contained in section 3.15.6.

Grievances solely alleging violations of the College’s equal employment opportunity or unlawful harassment policies shall be addressed through the College’s Discrimination/ Harassment Complaint Procedure set out in Policy D1.1 through D1.3.2 of the St. John Fisher College Employee Handbook.

3.15.3  Informal Procedures

A faculty member who believes that he or she has a grievance should first make a good faith effort to resolve the matter with the appropriate party or parties, enlisting the aid of mediating persons as appropriate. If this is unsuccessful, the grievant should discuss the situation with the School Dean. If the grievance is directed at the School Dean, the grievant should discuss the situation with the Provost. If the grievance is directed at the Provost, the grievant should discuss the situation with the President.

3.15.4  The Grievance Committee

If the informal procedures of Part 3.15.3 have been exhausted but do not resolve the grievance, the grievant who wishes to pursue the matter further shall present the Chair of the Grievance Committee and the President with a written statement of the grievance which reviews the pertinent facts surrounding the situation, and includes any pertinent evidence and documentation. Parties wishing to bring a formal grievance must notify the President and the Chair of the Grievance Committee within one month of the official action that is being grieved.

Members of the Grievance Committee who participated in the decision or action which is the subject of the grievance must recuse themselves from service on the Committee for purposes of the pending grievance. A Grievance Committee member who believes he or she may have any other conflict of interest with respect to the grievance must reveal such information to the parties and to the Chair as soon as possible. A party may also bring any perceived conflict of interest of a Committee member to the attention of the other party and the Chair. The Chair will determine if a conflict of interest or the appearance of a conflict of interest exists. The member who is determined to have the conflict of interest or appearance of a conflict of interest will be excused from service on the Committee for purposes of the pending grievance. If the Chair is the Committee member who may have the conflict of interest, the Committee member with the most years of service to the College will determine the issue.

The Grievance Committee is not authorized to hear grievances against the President or members of the Board of Trustees.
The grievant bringing a grievance agrees that he or she shall hold no member of the Grievance Committee, nor the President, liable to legal action for their duly constituted work on the grievance.

3.15.5  Grievance Committee Procedures

In all cases, the formal procedures of this Part 3.15.5 are available only for grievances which assert that there was a breach, misinterpretation or misapplication of the procedures involved in arriving at a decision, or that bias, conflict of interest, or other prejudice materially tainted the decision.

The Grievance Committee shall consider: the grievant’s written statement of the grievance along with any supporting evidence and documentation; and the testimony of the parties to the grievance and of any witnesses or other persons that the Committee considers appropriate. The Committee may request written statements from any of these parties or witnesses. The Committee, however, does not have the ability to compel the production of any witnesses or statements or other documentation. In most instances, all parties to the grievance will have full access to the testimony of all other parties and all witnesses, and have the opportunity, upon request, to question all other parties and all witnesses in the presence of the Committee.

The Grievance Committee will keep minutes of its meetings. These minutes will include the dates of the meetings, the committee members present, a list of those who presented testimony and the topics discussed.

All such communications and deliberations of the Committee, written and oral, shall be considered confidential by all Committee members and by the parties during the course of the proceedings and after, except when required by law or when disclosed in connection with potential or pending administrative or legal proceedings. Any member who violates this confidentiality shall be removed from the Committee and replaced by special election in the next Faculty Assembly meeting or, if during the summer, by an emergency session of the Faculty Council. Any party who violates this confidentiality during the course of a grievance proceeding may be subject to the Grievance Committee terminating its proceedings and recommending against the party who violated confidentiality; the party also may be subject to sanctions under any applicable rules of the College.

The Committee shall strive to establish the pertinent facts and to recommend an equitable and fair disposition of the grievance in accordance with the policies and procedures set forth in the Faculty Statutes. For all Committee decisions, whether about witnesses to be heard, written statements to be requested, or any other matter of procedure allowed by these grievance procedures, including its final recommendation regarding the grievance, the agreement of a majority of Committee members is sufficient.

After deliberations have been completed, the Committee shall forward its recommendation in writing to the President, together with all supporting evidence and minutes of its meetings, and shall notify the parties that a recommendation has been made. This written recommendation, without related documentation, will also be forwarded by the President to the parties in the grievance.

Before taking action on the grievance, the President shall offer each party the opportunity to respond to the Committee’s recommendation. If the President wishes to render a decision contrary to this recommendation, he or she will so inform the Committee so as to provide it with the opportunity to give further consideration to the matter. If the President and the Committee do not reach a consensus, the President will inform the Committee in writing at the time the decision is announced of his/her reasons for issuing a decision contrary to its recommendation. This written statement will be communicated to all parties in the grievance. In all cases, the decision of the President is final and not subject to appeal. A subsequent grievance may not be filed to challenge the manner in which a prior grievance was determined.
The Committee will report annually to the Faculty Assembly and may report on general principles arising from its work when institutional improvements may occur.

3.15.6 Provisions For Tenure and Promotion Grievances

For purposes of these procedures, a “tenure grievance” or “promotion grievance” is defined as a claim by a grievant that there has been an alleged breach, misinterpretation or misapplication of the tenure or promotion procedures set out in the Faculty Statutes; or that conflict of interest materially tainted the decision.

A faculty member who has been denied tenure or promotion may file a grievance by following the procedures set out in Section 3.15.4 and 3.15.5. Although the College encourages informal exchange between parties, the informal grievance procedures set out in Section 3.15.3 do not apply to tenure and promotion grievances and need not be exhausted for tenure or promotion grievances.

In cases regarding promotion or tenure recommendations and decisions, a grievance cannot be brought to reconsider the merits of a tenure or promotion recommendation or decision. The Grievance Committee may not substitute its judgment on the merits for the judgment of the Committee on Rank and Tenure or the other participants in the tenure review process.

When considering a tenure or promotion grievance, the Grievance Committee may not demand testimony or documentation of the confidential deliberations or votes of the Committee on Rank and Tenure, the grievant's department, or the Dean, Provost or President. To the extent that such testimony or documentation is revealed in the course of the grievance proceedings, such information must be maintained as confidential by the Grievance Committee and used only for purposes of determining the grievance.

If, as a result of a grievant's tenure or promotion grievance, the Grievance Committee upholds the grievance or the President changes his/her original recommendation to the Board of Trustees, the Board may reconsider its original tenure or promotion decision for the grievant.
